The New Social Contract Joseph Dillon Davey,1995-08-30 According to the Justice Department s National Crime Survey the crime rate in the United States is lower today than it was when Nixon was in the White House In spite of this political leaders demand nationwide prison construction as a response to the war on drugs and to accommodate the results of the new three strikes law At the same time the gap between rich and poor is wider than ever and the needs of the non disruptive poor are being ignored by the economic and political elites to the point of unprecedented homelessness The author predicts this widening gap will prompt the return of 1960s style civil turmoil which will lead to the end of the war on drugs and the emptying of hundreds of thousands of cells so the protesting poor can be plausibly threatened with incarceration The American System of Criminal Justice George F. Cole, Christopher E. Smith, 2004 This classic best seller commonly referred to as The Eagle encourages students to become better citizens to determine what Justice means in our society and what role individuals play This text examines criminal justice as an interdisciplinary endeavor sharing elements from criminology sociology law history psychology and political science It challenges students to balance the mechanics and system of criminal justice with the human side of the story Cole and Smith present an exciting and relevant introduction to the field of criminal justice The text combines solid research and intellectual rigor in an approachable manner with detailed attention to current and compelling events to help students appreciate the many aspects of the discipline and how they can participate in the system as citizens of the United States
