Building World-Class Universities Qi Wang, Ying

Cheng, Nian Cai Liu, 2013-04-20 Within higher education world class universities are commonly regarded as elite research universities and play a critical role in developing a nation's competitiveness in the global knowledge economy An increasing number of countries regions and higher education institutions in different parts of the world have joined the same battle for academic excellence While emerging countries and their universities make every effort to enhance their capacity and boost their research performance the academic superpowers endeavour to maintain if not further improve their global positions Building World Class Universities Different Approaches to a Shared Goal intends to provide an in depth picture of different approaches in pursuit of the shared goal of developing academic excellence and to reflect the current trends in this field Divided into three parts the book covers building world class universities from a national regional perspective managing world class universities from an institutional perspective and measuring world class universities from a ranking indicator perspective This book not only represents a contribution to the ongoing discussion on the topic of building world class universities but can be seen as a continuation of the previous three volumes on this topic World Class Universities and Ranking Aiming beyond Status The World Class University as Part of a New Higher Education Paradigm From Institutional Qualities to Systemic Excellence and Paths to a World Class University Lessons from Practices and Experiences All four books will be useful readings for students and academics in higher education generally in addition to policy makers and informed practitioners and practitioners

Higher Education, Public Good and Markets Jandhyala B. G. Tilak, 2017-10-16

This book critically examines some of the major trends in the development of higher education. It demonstrates how in the context of liberalisation, globalisation and marketisation the crisis in higher education has assumed different dimensions in all advanced and emerging societies. The author shows how the state tends to slowly withdraw from the responsibility of higher education including in the arena of policy making or simply adopts a policy of laissez faire of non involvement which helps in the rapid unbridled growth of private sector in higher education. The notion of higher education as a public good is under serious contestation in current times. The book argues for the need to resurrect the compelling nature of higher education along with its several implications for public policy and planning while providing a broad portrayal of global developments, comparative perspectives and key lessons. The volume will be of interest to scholars and researchers of education, political science, public policy and administration, governance, development studies, economics and those working in the higher education sectors, think tanks, policymakers as well as NGOs.

In Good Company Bede Benjamin Bidlack, 2015-02-04

In Good Company answers a question that has confounded Christian theologians: What is the nature of the body that will enjoy resurrection at the end of time? In this exciting work of comparative theology, Bede Benjamin Bidlack derives a theory of the body from the French Jesuit Pierre Teilhard de Chardin by putting him in dialogue with the Song Dynasty Daoist Xiao Yingsou. In addition to its contribution to comparative theology, In Good Company offers the first translation of the preface of Xiao's commentary on the Duren jing in a Western language as well as a careful explication of the provocative mountain diagram therein. Bidlack presents an original contribution for both scholars of Christian theology and Chinese religion. An excellent example of comparative theology, Bede Bidlack's In Good Company demonstrates how certain lacunae in one tradition may be addressed by drawing on resources from another religion. Having identified a neglect of the body in the work of Pierre Teilhard de Chardin and in much of the Christian tradition of divinization, Bidlack discusses the work of Daoist scholar Xiao Yingsou as a possible source of inspiration and theological imagination. Catherine Cornille, Newton College Alumnae Chair Professor of Comparative Theology, Boston College. In Good Company takes comparative theology to a new level: it not only places Daoism front and center but also opens Christian spirituality to a wider dimension. Concerned with the two core themes of the body and personal divinization or resurrection, the book centers on the work of two influential thinkers in their traditions: Teilhard de Chardin and Xiao Yingsou. Although 800 years apart, their visions of the body as the means to ultimate fulfillment in close relation to divinity and the cosmos as a whole powerfully enhance each other as do their understanding of the intricate process of personal divinization. The book is challenging in its outlook, unsettling in its destabilization of terms, and brilliant in its interweaving of the two traditions. A must for anyone concerned with the new global environment of religious pluralism and the ongoing process of interreligious dialogue. Livia Kohn, Professor Emerita of Religion, East Asian Studies, Boston University.

The Palgrave Handbook of Asia Pacific Higher Education Christopher S. Collins, Molly N.N. Lee, John N. Hawkins, Deane E. Neubauer, 2016-10-06. This volume seeks to identify and explore the forces affecting higher education in the Asia Pacific region today. It includes a set of conceptually rich organizing chapters followed by detailed country specific studies that detail both the underlying dynamics of these forces and the manner in which they have affected specific countries. In this way the chapters touch on the complex demographics of the region how continued and continuous economic development impinges on higher education and how neoliberalism has affected higher education across many dimensions. The volume also addresses the complex issues associated with cross border education and the daunting challenges of both national and cross national quality assurance.

Comparative Education Robert F. Arnove, Carlos Alberto Torres, 2007. Comparative Education examines the common problems facing education systems around the world as the result of global economic social and cultural forces. Issues related to the governance financing provision processes and outcomes of education systems for differently situated social groups are described and analyzed in specific regional national and local contexts.

Relational Aspects of Parental Involvement to Support Educational Outcomes William Jeynes, 2022-07-18. Offering contributions from international leaders in the field this volume builds on empirically informed meta analyses to foreground relationship based aspects of parental involvement in children's education and learning. Chapters explore how factors including parent child communication cultural and parental expectations as well as communication with a child's teacher and school can impact educational outcomes. By focusing on relationships between parents teachers and students chapter authors offer a nuanced picture of parental involvement in children's education and learning. Considering variation across countries educational and non educational contexts and challenges posed by parental absence and home schooling the book offers key insights into how parents schools communities and educators can best support future generations. Using multiple forms of research from the relational perspective this volume will be of interest to and the Digital Divide: Critical, Historical and Social Perspectives Randolph Leigh, Patricia, 2010-10-31 This book explores and presents research that centers on the historical political sociological and economic factors that engender global inequities Provided by publisher Higher Education and the Common Good Simon Marginson, 2016-12-19 In the last half century higher education has moved from the fringe to the centre of society and accumulated a long list of functions In the English speaking world Europe and much of East Asia more than two thirds of all school students enter tertiary education Bulging at the seams universities are meant to be fountains of new knowledge engines of prosperity and innovation drivers of regional growth skilled migration and global competitiveness and makers of equality of opportunity Yet universities cannot drive prosperity on their own and they can do little to stop rising income inequality which is shaped by taxation policy and income determination in the workplace Worse the growing emphasis on the private benefits of higher education without regard for its public benefits has positioned the higher education sector as elite forming as a maker of social inequality rather than a corrective to it In the English speaking countries in which government sees itself as servant of high capitalism official policy models higher education as a market and has narrowed its purpose to the enhancement of individual earnings and employability partly to justify the ever rising tuition fees Higher education systems have become intensely competitive and increasingly stratified with value concentrated at the top In this quasi aristocratic economics of education mass institutions are losing social value and the collective public benefits of universities are unmonitored underfunded and ignored In short governments expect both too much and too little of higher education and its contribution to the common good is being eroded Yet this sector can play a key role in rebuilding social solidarity and mobility in fractured societies

Successful Global Collaborations in Higher Education Institutions Abdulrahman Al-Youbi, Adnan H. M. Zahed, William G. Tierney, 2019-08-15 This open access book presents deep investigation to the manifold topics pertaining to global university collaboration It outlines the strategies King Abdulaziz University has employed to rise in global rankings and the reasons chosen to collaborate with other academic and research institutes The environment in which universities currently exist is considered and subsequently how an innovative culture might be established and maintained to enable global partnerships to be implemented and to succeed is discussed The book provides an intense focus on why collaboration is a necessary ingredient for knowledge transfer and explains how to do it The last part of the book considers how to sustain partnerships This is because one of the challenges of global partnerships is not just setting them up but also sustaining them

Researching Higher Education in Asia Jisun Jung,Hugo Horta,Akiyoshi Yonezawa,2017-09-05 This book discusses higher education research as a field of study in Asia It traces the evolution of research in the field of higher education in several Asian countries and shares ideas about the evolving higher education research communities in Asia It also identifies common and dissimilar challenges across national communities providing researchers and policymakers essential new insights into the relevance of a greater regional articulation of national higher education research communities and their further integration into and contribution to the international higher education research community as a whole Economic Development in Twentieth-Century East Asia Aiko Ikeo,2006-05-09 This collection supplies fascinating insights into aspects of East Asian economic development It will interest scholars in a variety of related fields and provoke further research and debate
