The Community Food Forest Handbook Catherine Bukowski, John Munsell, 2018
Collaboration and leadership strategies for long term success Fueled by the popularity of permaculture and agroecology community food forests are capturing the imaginations of people in neighborhoods towns and cities across the United States Along with community gardens and farmers markets community food forests are an avenue toward creating access to nutritious food and promoting environmental sustainability where we live Interest in installing them in public spaces is on the rise People are the most vital component of community food forests but while we know more than ever about how to design food forests the ways in which to best organize and lead groups of people involved with these projects has received relatively little attention In The Community Food Forest Handbook Catherine Bukowski and John Munsell dive into the civic aspects of community food forests drawing on observations group meetings and interviews at over 20 projects across the country and their own experience creating and managing a food forest They combine the stories and strategies gathered during their research with concepts of community development and project management to outline steps for creating lasting public food forests that positively impact communities Rather than rehash food forest design which classic books such as Forest Gardening and Edible Forest Gardens address in great detail The Community Food Forest Handbook uses systems thinking and draws on social change theory to focus on how to work with diverse groups of people when conceiving of designing and implementing a community food forest To find practical ground the authors use management phases to highlight the ebb and flow of community capitals from a project s inception to its completion They also explore examples of positive feedbacks that are often unexpected but offer avenues for enhancing the success of a community food forest The Community Food Forest Handbook provides readers with helpful ideas for building and sustaining momentum working with diverse public and private stakeholders integrating assorted civic interests and visions within one project creating safe and attractive sites navigating community policies positively affecting public perception and managing site evolution and adaptation Its concepts and examples showcase the complexities of community food forests highlighting the human resilience of those who learn and experience what is possible when they collaborate on a shared vision for their community

The Ballad Collectors of North America Scott B. Spencer, 2012 Much has been written about the songs gathered in North America in the first half of the 20th century However there is scant information on those individuals responsible for gathering these songs The Ballad Collectors of North America How Gathering Folksongs Transformed Academic Thought and American Identity fills this gap documenting the efforts of those who transcribed and recorded North American folk songs Both biographical and topical this book chronicles not only the most influential of these song catchers but also examines the main schools of thought on the collection process the leading proponents of those schools and the projects that they shaped Contributors also consider the role of technology especially the phonograph in the collection efforts Chapters organized by region cover such areas as Appalachia the West and Canada while others devoted to specialized topics from the cowboy tune and occupational song to the commercialization of folk music through song collections and anthologies Ballad Collectors investigates the larger role of the ballad in the development of American identity from the national appreciation of cowboy songs in popular culture to the use of Appalachian song forms in radio broadcasts to the role of dustbowl ballads in the urban folk revival of the 1950s and 1960s Finally this collection assesses the changing role of songs and song texts in the academic fields of folklore anthropology musicology and ethnomusicology Scholars and students of American cultural and social history as well as fans of North American folk and popular music will find The Ballad Collectors of North America a fascinating story of how the American folk tradition gained greater visibility fueling the revolutions that would follow in the writing and performance of American music Greater Than Equal Sarah Caroline Thuesen, 2013 Greater than Equal African American Struggles for Schools and Citizenship in North Carolina 1919 1965 Superfluous Southerners John J. Langdale, III, 2012-11-01 In Superfluous Southerners John J. Langdale III tells the story of traditionalist conservatism and its boundaries in twentieth century America Because this time period encompasses both the rise of the modern conservative movement and the demise of southern regional distinctiveness it affords an ideal setting both for observing the potentiality of American conservatism and for understanding the fate of the traditionalist man of letters Langdale uses the intellectual and literary histories of John Crowe Ransom Donald Davidson and Allen Tate the three principal contributors to the Agrarian manifesto I'll Take My Stand and of their three most remarkable intellectual descendants Cleanth Brooks Richard Weaver and Melvin Bradford to explore these issues Langdale begins his study with some observations on the nature of American exceptionalism and the intrinsic barriers which it presents to the traditionalist conservative imagination While works like Louis Menand's The Metaphysical Club have traced the origins of modern pragmatic liberalism during the late nineteenth century the nature of conservative thought in postbellum America remains less completely understood Accordingly Langdale considers the origins of the New Humanism movement at the turn of the twentieth century then turning to the manner in which midwesterners Irving Babbitt and Paul Elmer Moore stirred the imagination of the southern Agrarians during the 1920s After the publication of I'll Take My Stand in 1930 Agrarianism splintered into three distinct modes of traditionalist conservatism John Crowe Ransom sought refuge in literary criticism Donald Davidson in sectionalism and Allen Tate in an image of the religious wayfarer as a custodian of language Langdale traces the expansion of these modes of traditionalism by succeeding generations of southerners Following World War II Cleanth Brooks further refined the tradition of literary criticism while Richard Weaver elaborated the tradition of sectionalism However both Brooks and Weaver distinctively furthered Tate's notion that the integrity of language remained the fundamental concern of traditionalist conservatism Langdale concludes his study with a consideration of neoconservative opposition to M. E. Bradford's proposed 1980 nomination as head of the National Endowment for the Humanities and its significance for the southern man of letters in what was becoming postmodern and postsouthern America Though the post World War II ascendance of neoconservatism drastically altered American intellectual history the descendants of traditionalism remained largely superfluous to this purportedly conservative revival which had far more in common with pragmatic liberalism than with normative conservatism Numbers and Narratives Wray Vamplew, 2018-11-08 This volume argues for a more quantitative economic and theoretical approach to sports history The author notes that sport can have peculiar economics as in no other industry do rival businesses have to cooperate to produce a sellable output He also demonstrates via a case study of early gate money football in Scotland that sports producers were not always seeking profits and often put winning games and trophies ahead of making money Another analysis examines how industrialisation affected sport how sport became an industry in its own right and how the workplace became a major provider of sports facilities A look at third sector economics highlights how the popularity of football provided an ideal vehicle for charity fundraising The book observes that most sports participants are amateurs but at the elite level the paid player has a key role and this is assessed through case studies of the jockey and the golf professional Finally the author discusses and evaluates various theories relating to the historical development of the sports club This book was originally published as a special issue of Sport in Society Cultures Commerce Media Politics

In View of Academic Careers and Career-Making Scholars Victor N. Shaw, 2008-03-01 This volume connects career making to the general social context in which it takes place career making individuals to the large institutional establishment in which they operate and specifically career academicians to the overall knowledge enterprise from which they draw their intellectual inspiration on which they build their career achievements and to which they contribute their personal talents The main purpose is to explore what academic institutions the knowledge enterprise and the society as a whole can and ought to do to enhance productivity facilitate performance and improve experience of individual academicians in their career making endeavor Although various innovative ideas are presented to improve normal procedures or standard processes throughout academia answers to this focal question often lie in different levels of organizational units involved in academic operation That is what should a department do for its faculty a college for its departments a university for its colleges an association for its member organizations or a government for its academic institutions in the best interest of the latter Similarly although reformative measures are proposed to the attention of established entities or institutionalized systems change within the existing situation or practice to a large degree depends upon how people in various social roles relate to each other in attitude as well as in behavior when they perform their specific job In other words what should a professor do for graduate students a senior scholar for junior colleagues a chair for faculty members a dean for chairs a university chancellor for deans an editor for authors or an association president for the general membership from the due perspective of the latter The logic or legitimacy of examining this focal question and its organizational unit and social role is clear a shining academician owes much to the support of his or her assistants students and followers a rising university builds on the productivity of its individual divisions and a thriving knowledge enterprise depends upon the success of individual career making scholars Beyond its own functionality and success by division of labor the higher level or the larger system has an inescapable responsibility to ensure that individual players or components therein grow develop and perform to the best of their potential In content this volume consists of sixteen chapters Chapter 1 identifies main pathways and stages in academic careers Chapters 2 5 focuses on the career process exploring major requirements that an academician has to work on and fulfill in his or her career making endeavor These requirements include educational preparation job search institutional placement and professional networking Chapters 6 15 centers on the career structure examining essential elements that a scholar has to build and maintain in his or her career identity These elements range from the academic degree position publication teaching presentation service grants awards and membership in academic associations to tenure The last chapter capitalizes on the curriculum vitae as a miniature of the academic personality that a career professional must present to the community of scholarship
