Ali Power, 2016 Poetry Ali Power's A POEM FOR RECORD KEEPERS is a long poem made of short poems that comes on like a deadpan phalanx system unlearning itself while crashing resignation into the boards and pulling the rug out from under certainty line by line. But certainty is not simply replaced by uncertainty; an angular witty openness accumulates across Power's poem making it excellent company. That openness also lends itself to the poem's capacity to build the kind of necessarily enigmatic space love requires to fend off the grinding mob vacuum that is contemporary American life these days. Anselm Berrigan: You could compare the way A POEM FOR RECORD KEEPERS works to the ways other things work: locked groove records, Lorine Niedecker's calendar poems, waves but never for too long. As much as Ali Power's poetry delights in forward motion and real speaking, it also teaches you how to remain still and listen. This is an ingenious, biting, elegant book. To enter it is to feel squeezed by time and even if you want to, as I did, by hope. Everything is just beginning. It is, and it does. Then everything begins again right here. Mark Bibbins: The poet as one who maintains a history of one's activities. The poem as record, as in ledger, one entry per every other line, record as something we replay when it's a favorite. These lines now live in my head. They are strange enough to keep me on my toes, familiar enough to seem like they are talking about me and everyone I know. In fact, I do want to hang out with this new book and its author, Stacy Szymaszek. How to Paint Sunlight Lawrence Ferlinghetti, 2002. This new collection of poems by Ferlinghetti is graced with a short introduction by the poet. For more than 50 years, Ferlinghetti has been illuminating both the everyday and the unusual, all the while keeping true to his original dictum of speaking in a way accessible to everyone.
