Business      The Christian Advocate ,1907      Christian Advocate and Journal and Zion's Herald ,1907      After Work Shiori Shakuto,2025-01-07 An ethnography of silver backpackers that offers a feminist perspective on what makes a good retirement in contemporary societies The moniker silver backpackers refers to Japanese couples who in their mid fifties to seventies move to Malaysia to enjoy their retirement Recent scholarship on Japan has revealed how the gendered division of labor impacts the lives of middle class workers and their families But how do cultural values live on or change when these professionals retire from work move on from identities built through salaried careers and embark on a new phase of life After Work takes up this question to focus on what comes after work and in the process expands our understanding of aging gender migration and the future of work Based on fifteen months of fieldwork in Kuala Lumpur and employing a transnational feminist framework After Work investigates moments of difference in the experiences of older women and men to examine patriarchal conversations that dominate ideas about contemporary retirement Shiori Shakuto argues that anxiety around self and belonging in retirement are instigated by the capitalist labor regime and the discourse of successful aging

both of which devalue nonremunerated activities conducted at home What is needed instead she contends is a re valuation of key domestic activities from caring for children to pursuing individual hobbies so that life can be appreciated in its entirety Shakuto also takes into account the fact that this transnational retirement is set in Malaysia a nation that Japan occupied during World War II and thereafter subject to decades of economic investment and resource exploitation by Japanese corporations Highlighting how historical cultural and racialized complexities entangle with intimate relations in increasingly connected Asian countries while simultaneously acknowledging how the boundaries between work and life blur ever more in contemporary society After Work complicates our perceptions of aging and a good retirement as well as our understandings of gender migration and the future of work as we know it

The New York Times Index, 1928 Implicating the System Elspeth Kaiser-Derrick, 2019-03-15 Indigenous women continue to be overrepresented in Canadian prisons research demonstrates how their overincarceration and often extensive experiences of victimization are interconnected with and through ongoing processes of colonization Implicating the System Judicial Discourses in the Sentencing of Indigenous Women explores how judges navigate these issues in sentencing by examining related discourses in selected judgments from a review of 175 decisions The feminist theory of the victimization criminalization continuum informs Elspeth Kaiser Derrick's work. She examines its overlap with the Gladue analysis foregrounding decisions that effectively integrate gendered understandings of Indigenous women's victimization histories and problematizing those with less contextualized reasoning. Ultimately, she contends that judicial use of the victimization criminalization continuum deepens the Gladue analysis and augments its capacity to further its objectives of alternatives to incarceration. Kaiser Derrick discusses how judicial discourses about victimization intersect with those about rehabilitation and treatment and suggests associated problems particularly where prison is characterized as a place of healing. Finally, she shows how recent incursions into judicial discretion through legislative changes to the conditional sentencing regime that restrict the availability of alternatives to incarceration are particularly concerning for Indigenous women in the system.
