The Nervous System

The nervous system is an extremely complex, highly organized, and very sensitive structure that regulates all the functions of the human body. The main purpose of the nervous system is to receive information from the environment and the body, and to coordinate the response. The nervous system is divided into the central nervous system (CNS) and the peripheral nervous system (PNS).

Central Nervous System

The central nervous system (CNS) is the part of the nervous system that is located in the brain and spinal cord. It is the main control center of the body, and it is responsible for processing all the information that comes in from the senses and for coordinating the response. The CNS is divided into the brain and the spinal cord. The brain is the part of the CNS that is located in the head, and it is responsible for processing all the information that comes in from the senses and for coordinating the response. The spinal cord is the part of the CNS that is located in the back, and it is responsible for transmitting information between the brain and the rest of the body.

Peripheral Nervous System

The peripheral nervous system (PNS) is the part of the nervous system that is located outside the CNS. It is responsible for transmitting information between the CNS and the rest of the body. The PNS is divided into the somatic nervous system and the autonomic nervous system. The somatic nervous system is responsible for controlling the voluntary movements of the body, and the autonomic nervous system is responsible for controlling the involuntary functions of the body.

The PNS is divided into the somatic nervous system and the autonomic nervous system. The somatic nervous system is responsible for controlling the voluntary movements of the body, and the autonomic nervous system is responsible for controlling the involuntary functions of the body. The somatic nervous system is divided into the motor and sensory pathways. The motor pathway is responsible for controlling the voluntary movements of the body, and the sensory pathway is responsible for transmitting information from the senses to the CNS. The autonomic nervous system is divided into the sympathetic and parasympathetic systems. The sympathetic system is responsible for the "fight or flight" response, and the parasympathetic system is responsible for the "rest and digest" response.

The Brain

The brain is the main control center of the nervous system. It is responsible for processing all the information that comes in from the senses and for coordinating the response. The brain is divided into the cerebrum, cerebellum, brainstem, and limbic system. The cerebrum is the largest part of the brain and is responsible for processing all the information that comes in from the senses and for coordinating the response. The cerebellum is located at the back of the brain and is responsible for coordinating the movements of the body. The brainstem is located in the middle of the brain and is responsible for controlling the involuntary functions of the body. The limbic system is located in the front of the brain and is responsible for controlling the emotions and the memory.
