The perfect tool for testing SDH & SONET core networks up to 10 Gbps

SDH and SONET technologies are firmly established in the core and metropolitan networks. STM-64 and OC-192 are widely deployed in today's networks. While great care is devoted to warrant a very high quality of transport, in the real world of day-to-day installation, commissioning and maintenance activities things are not always running smoothly. To this effect, several important tests are always carried out in order to assess the good behavior of these networks before turn-up. Similarly, when the network has been turned on, it is paramount to keep monitoring the network health at physical level and beyond.

The SDH/SONET application of the UTA module provides a complete set of test functions for testing SDH/SONET networks up to 10 Gbps, among which we find the clocking & monitoring of the optical levels, alarms, error & frequency steering, tributary mapping checking, routing, connectivity and pointer tests on the synchronous payload, round trip delay measurement, BER tests, automatic protection scheme switching time and more.

As a part of the UTA applications family, the SDH/SONET application is just one test solution among many others. The UTA module has been designed to support almost all the transport standards of modern networks (ex: 10 GgE, G.709, ...) and represents a new class of tester for the field engineers. One tool is all you need!
