The Infographic Murray Dick,2020-04-21 An exploration of infographics and data visualization as a cultural phenomenon from eighteenth century print culture to today s data journalism Infographics and data visualization are ubiquitous in our everyday media diet particularly in news in print newspapers on television news and online It has been argued that infographics are changing what it means to be literate in the twenty first century and even that they harmonize uniquely with human cognition In this first serious exploration of the subject Murray Dick traces the cultural evolution of the infographic examining its use in news and resistance to its use from eighteenth century print culture to today s data journalism He identifies six historical phases of infographics in popular culture the proto infographic the classical the improving the commercial the ideological and the professional Dick describes the emergence of infographic forms within a wider history of journalism culture and communications focusing his analysis on the UK He considers their use in the partisan British journalism of late eighteenth and early nineteenth century print media their later deployment as a vehicle for reform and improvement their mass market debut in the twentieth century as a means of explanation and sometimes propaganda and their use for both ideological and professional purposes in the post World War II marketized newspaper culture Finally he proposes best practices for news infographics and defends infographics and data visualization against a range of criticism Dick offers not only a history of how the public has experienced and understood the infographic but also an account of what data visualization can tell us about the past

Radical Communications Michael Tsangaris,2021-11-08 Radical Communications explores unauthorized messages we see in the cities we live in and their impact on the construction of social reality Michael Tsangaris treats the city as a text and examines the political slogans graffiti and street art of Athens as complex visual signs in an alternative communication system He argues that the legitimacy aesthetic value and social acceptability of these expressions depend on the time place and social group or individual that interprets them Finally his analysis reveals the contradictory character of the contemporary city It shows a city of social inequalities cultural diversity multinational encounters of conflicts between age groups and political economic and epidemic crises a city of one dimensional thinking apathy and consumer fetishism but also a city that aspires to the dream of a better society and holds utopian promise

Re/humanizing Education ,2022-05-16 Teaching and learning are profoundly personal experiences yet systems of education often prioritize agendas that alienate people rather than engage them Reconceptualizing teaching and learning as a co constructed praxis places individuals at the heart of education and in so doing regards knowledge acquisition as a process of understanding that is dynamically and personally negotiated at the intersection of self subject and relationality This approach at once pedagogical and practical has the capacity to transform the classroom from a place of containment to one of expansiveness Through critical qualitative creative and arts integrated approaches this collection aims to explore the co curricular capacity of lived experience to re humanize education This is a timely project given the multiple race health environmental and socio political crises playing out on the world stage Contributions include works by authors who explore co curricular inclusion of lived experience for its potential to create more equitable and representative curricula co curricular capacity of lived experience to advance relationality both human and more than human and co curricular potential of lived experience to un privilege the current prioritization of the quantifiable in favour of more inclusive and holistic epistemologies
