Gyde Lund,1991 Forests and Rural Development Jürgen Pretzsch,Dietrich Darr,Holm Ubrig,Eckhard Auch,2014-01-21 This book provides an overview of the complex challenges and opportunities related to forest based rural development in the tropics and subtropics Applying a socio ecological perspective the book traces the changing paradigms of forestry in rural development throughout history summarizes the major aspects of the rural development challenge in forest areas and documents innovative approaches in fields such as land utilization technology and organizational development rural advisory services financing mechanisms participative planning and forest governance It brings together scholars and practitioners dealing with the topics from various theoretical and practical angles Calling for an approach that carefully balances market forces with government intervention the book shows that forests in rural areas have the potential to provide a solid foundation for a green global economy New Perspectives in Forest Science Helder Viana,Francisco Antonio García-Morote,2018-04-26 Forest management should allow the sustainable use of forests This is only possible through solid knowledge in the disciplines that forest science encompasses The readers of New Perspectives in Forest Science have an excellent source of information on actual trends of forest research and knowledge about the use of forest and landscape This book has been written by specialists focusing on the following aspects of forest science C cycle biomass forest restoration forest resources and biodiversity The authors of this book are of different nationalities and specialties thus providing diverse perspectives on the subject of forestry We hope that the chapters of this book can serve both students and researchers as excellent guides to improve their knowledge on forest science Perspectives on the Marine Animal Forests of the World Sergio Rossi,Lorenzo Bramanti,2021-02-06 Marine Animal Forests MAFs are spread all over the world Composed by suspension feeding organisms e g corals gorgonians sponges bryozoans bivalves etc MAFs constitute a vast number of marine ecosystems such as coral reefs cold water corals sponge grounds bivalve beds etc The surface covered by these systems is prominent at the scale of the oceans of the planet though poorly known In a previous book Marine Animal Forests the ecology of benthic biodiversity hotspots several aspects of the MAFs were described and discussed building the basis for a holistic approach with the aim of putting these shallow and deep sea ecosystems under a common umbrella The main target of the present book is to identify and address important topics which were not covered in the previous three volumes Bryozoans or Polychaeta for example are treated in this volume as well as hydrothermal vents ecosystems and submarine caves the chemical ecology in MAFs or the nursery effect on these ecosystems The vastity of the MAF concept opens new insights in the biology physiology biodiversity of the organisms structuring these highly biodiverse ecosystems and on the dangers threatening them such as microplastics or the role of invasive species as an impact of their trophic ecology or distribution In a fast changing world in which the complexity of MAFs is at risk we propose an in depth analysis of many aspects that may be inspirational for future research lines in marine biology and ecology

Tribal Communities in the Malay World Geoffrey Benjamin, 2003-08-01 The Malay World Alam Melayu spanning the Malay Peninsula much of Sumatra and parts of Borneo has long contained within it a variety of populations Most of the Malays have been organized into the different kingdoms kerajaan Melayu from which they have derived their identity But the territories of those kingdoms have also included tribal peoples both Malay and non Malay who have held themselves apart from those kingdoms in varying degrees In the last three decades research on these tribal societies has aroused increasing interest This book explores the ways in which the character of these societies relates to the Malay kingdoms that have held power in the region for many centuries past as well as to the modern nation states of the region It brings together researchers committed to comparative analysis of the tribal groups living on either side of the Malacca Straits in Indonesia Malaysia Thailand and Singapore New theoretical and descriptive approaches are presented for the study of the social and cultural continuities and discontinuities manifested by tribal life in the region Research Paper PNW. ,1978 The Routledge Handbook of Development and Environment Brent McCusker, Waquar Ahmed, Maano Ramutsindela, Patricia Solís, 2021-11-29 The handbook seeks to illuminate the key concepts in the study of development environment through showcasing some of the Majoritarian formerly Developing world s scholars in order to explore theoretical connections through critical radical theory small theory various conceptual frameworks and non Western and subaltern viewpoints The volume examines the themes around the study of the relationship between economic and social development and the environment Part 1 covers theoretical and conceptual approaches to the study of development and environment by examining the diverse ways in which people perceive understand and act upon the world around them Cross scalar topics such as neo liberalism and globalization human rights climate change sustainability and technology are covered in Part 2 The book shifts to examinations of resources and production in Part 3 where authors with a focus on one or more environmental resources or types of economic production are presented Topics range from water agriculture and food to energy bioeconomy and mining The fourth section presents chapters where people are at the center of the development environment nexus through topics such as gender relations children health and cities Finally policy and governance of development and environment are explored in Part 5 The section includes both academics and practitioners who have worked with policy makers and are policy makers themselves The book is primarily intended for scholars and graduate students in geography environmental studies and development studies for whom it will provide an invaluable and up to date guide to current thinking across the range of disciplines which converge in the study of development and environment Wellbeing and Self-Transformation in Natural Landscapes Rebecca Crowther, 2018-09-20 This book explores how natural landscapes are linked to positive mental wellbeing While natural landscapes have long been represented and portrayed as transformative the link to mental wellbeing is an area that researchers are still aiming to comprehend Accompanying five groups of people to rural Scotland the author considers individual external and group motivations for journeying from urban environments examining in what ways these excursions are personally and socially transformative Far more than traversing mere physical boundaries this book illustrates the new challenges experiences territories and cultures provided by these excursions firmly anchored in the Scottish countryside In doing so the author questions the extent to which people s own narratives link to the perception that the outdoors are positively transformative and what indeed does have the power to influence transformation Grounded in extensive qualitative research this contemplative and ethnographic book will

Property and Human Rights in a Global Context Ting Xu, Jean Allain, 2016-03-24 Property as a human rights concern is manifested through its incorporation in international instruments and as a subject of the law through property related cases considered by international human rights organs Yet for the most part the relationship between property and human rights has been discussed in rather superficial terms lacking a clear substantive connection or common language That said the currents of globalisation have witnessed a new era of interrelation between these two areas of the law including the emergence of international intellectual property law and the recognition of indigenous claims which in fundamental ways speak to an engagement with human rights law This collection starts the conversation between human rights lawyers and property lawyers and explores analytical approaches to the increasing relationship between property and human rights in a global context The chapters engage with key theoretical and policy debates and range across three main themes The re evaluation of the public private divide in the law the tensions between the market and social justice in development and the balance between the rights of individuals and those of communities The chapters adopt a global comparative perspective and engage in case studies from countries including India Philippines Brazil the United States the United Kingdom and includes various regions of Africa and Europe

General Technical Report RM., 1994 Forests for the Future Paul Wolvekamp, 1999 Aimed at policy makers and practitioners this work looks at how local and indigenous communities can maintain the balance between their societies and their forest environments when faced with increasing external pressures rising populations and growing demands for basic needs and cash While efforts by governments or corporations to restore and manage forest environments are often non existent or ineffective there frequently exists within communities who depend on forests a wealth of knowledge about rational land use and environmental protection

The State of the World's Forests 2020 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, United Nations Environment Programme, 2020-05-01 As the United Nations Decade on Biodiversity 2011 2020 comes to a close and countries prepare to adopt a post 2020 global biodiversity framework this edition of The State of the World's Forests SOFO examines the contributions of forests and of the people who use and manage them to the conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity Forests cover just over 30 percent of the global land area yet they provide habitat for the vast majority of the terrestrial plant and animal species known to science Unfortunately forests and the biodiversity they contain continue to be under threat from actions to convert the land to agriculture or unsustainable levels of exploitation much of it illegal The State of the World's Forests 2020 assesses progress to date in meeting global targets and goals related to forest biodiversity and examines the effectiveness of policies actions and approaches in terms of both conservation and sustainable development outcomes A series of case studies provide examples of innovative practices that combine conservation and sustainable use of forest biodiversity to create balanced solutions for both people and the planet
