Not Yet the Twilight Josef Pieper, 2017 Volume 2 of Josef Pieper's three part autobiography is here presented for the first time in English translation The volume represents not just a simple continuation of a seamless story The first volume dealt with Pieper's life from his birth in 1904 to the time of World War 2 The current volume deals with the post war years 1945-1964 offering a personal documentation of the institutional rubble through which an emerging academic and philosopher had to find his way This included finding work re-establishing himself in the family home completing his academic education and beginning to teach philosophy in a climate of despair and disillusionment In this context the quintessential Pieper emerges His positive philosophy of being firmly based on Plato and Thomas Aquinas finds extraordinary resonance with students who flock to his lectures in surprising numbers seeking and finding a positive way forward His dedication to training teachers sees him declining higher academic posts in Germany in favor of work which though less lucrative and more obscure he considered more fruitful These years are also marked by his fiercely independent stance over against the Catholic hierarchy despite his staunch adherence to the tradition values of Christianity His popularity as a philosopher and teacher quickly spread to America where he was invited to teach at famous universities His fame led to further travels to Switzerland England France Spain India China Saigon and Thailand Such travels enriched his thinking and nourished the open mindedness of the Western philosopher

To the End of the Earth John C. McManus, 2023-05-02 Winner of the Army Historical Foundation Award for Excellence in U S Army Writing From the liberation of the Philippines to the Japanese surrender the final volume of John C McManus's trilogy on the US Army in the Pacific War Brilliant and riveting a truly great book Gen David Petraeus Triumphant and compelling Richard Frank McManus is one of the best if not the best World War II historians working today World War II magazine The dawn of 1945 finds a US Army at its peak in the Pacific Allied victory over Japan is all but assured The only question is how many more months or years of fight does the enemy have left John C McManus winner of the Gilder Lehrman Prize for Military History concludes his magisterial series described by the Wall Street Journal as being as vast and splendid as Rick Atkinson's Pulitzer Prize winning Liberation Trilogy with this brilliant final volume On the island of Luzon a months long stand off between US and Japanese troops finally breaks open as American soldiers push into Manila while paratroopers and amphibious invaders capture nearby Corregidor. The Philippines are soon liberated and Allied strategists turn their eyes to China, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, and the Japanese home islands themselves. Readers will walk in the boots of American soldiers and officers braving intense heat, rampant disease, and a by now suicidal enemy determined to kill as many opponents as possible before defeat, and they will encounter Japanese soldiers faced with the terrible choice between capitulation or doom. At the same time, this outstanding narrative lays bare the titanic ego and ambition of the Pacific War's most prominent general, Douglas MacArthur, and the complex challenges he faced in Japan's unconditional surrender and America's lengthy occupation.
