Narrative and Folk Psychology Daniel D. Hutto, 2009 This volume collects a special issue of the Journal of Consciousness Studies that focuses on the role of narrative within cultures

The Experientiality of Narrative Marco Caracciolo, 2014-07-28 Recent developments in cognitive narrative theory have called attention to readers active participation in making sense of narrative However while most psychologically inspired models address interpreters subpersonal i e unconscious responses the experiential level of their engagement with narrative remains relatively undertheorized Building on theories of experience and embodiment within today s second generation cognitive science and opening a dialogue with so called enactivist philosophy this book sets out to explore how narrative experiences arise from the interaction between textual cues and readers past experiences Caracciolo s study offers a phenomenologically inspired account of narrative spanning a wide gamut of responses such as the embodied dynamic of imagining a fictional world empathetic perspective taking in relating to characters and higher order evaluations and interpretations Only by placing a premium on how such modes of engagement are intertwined in experience Caracciolo argues can we do justice to narrative s psychological and existential impact on our lives These insights are illustrated through close readings of literary texts ranging from mile Zola s Germinal to Jos Saramago s Blindness

The Extended Theory of Cognitive Creativity Antonino Pennisi, Alessandra Falzone, 2019-09-25 This edited volume focuses on the hypothesis that performativity is not a property confined to certain specific human skills or to certain specific acts of language nor an accidental enrichment due to creative intelligence Instead the executive and motor component of cognitive behavior should be considered an intrinsic part of the physiological functioning of the mind and as endowed with self generative power Performativity in this theoretical context can be defined as a constituent component of cognitive processes The material action allowing us to interact with reality is both the means by which the subject knows the surrounding world and one through which he experiments with the possibilities of his body This proposal is rooted in models now widely accepted in the philosophy of mind and language in fact it focuses on a space of awareness that is not in the individual or outside it but is determined by the species specific ways in which the body acts on the world This theoretical hypothesis will be pursued through the latest interdisciplinary methodology typical of cognitive science that coincide with the five sections in which the book is organized Embodied enactivist philosophical approaches Aesthetics approaches Naturalistic and evolutionary approaches Neuroscientific approaches Linguistics approaches This book is intended for linguists philosophers psychologists cognitive scientists scholars of art and aesthetics performing artists researchers in embodied cognition especially enactivists and students of the extended mind

The Shared Mind Jordan Zlatev, Timothy P. Racine, Chris Sinha, Esa Itkonen, 2008-06-26 The cognitive and language sciences are increasingly oriented towards the social dimension of human cognition and communication The hitherto dominant approach in modern cognitive science has viewed social cognition through the prism of the traditional philosophical puzzle of how individuals solve the problem of understanding Other Minds The Shared Mind challenges the conventional theory of mind approach proposing that the human mind is fundamentally based on intersubjectivity the sharing of affective conative intentional and cognitive states and processes between a plurality of subjects The socially shared intersubjective foundation of the human mind is manifest in the structure of early interaction and communication imitation gestural communication and the normative and argumentative nature of language In this path breaking volume leading researchers from psychology linguistics philosophy and primatology offer complementary perspectives on the role of intersubjectivity in the context of human development comparative cognition and evolution and language and linguistic theory

Storytelling and the Sciences of Mind David Herman, 2017-02-24 An transdisciplinary exploration of narrative not just as a target for interpretation but also as a means for making sense of experience itself With Storytelling and the Sciences of Mind David Herman proposes a cross fertilization between the study of narrative and research on intelligent behavior This cross fertilization goes beyond the simple importing of ideas from the sciences of mind into scholarship on narrative and instead aims for convergence between work in narrative studies and research in the cognitive sciences The book as a whole centers on two questions How do people make sense of stories And How do people use stories to make sense of the world Examining narratives from different periods and across multiple media and genres Herman shows how traditions of narrative research can help shape ways of formulating and addressing questions about intelligent activity and vice versa Using case studies that range from Robert Louis Stevenson s Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde to sequences from The Incredible Hulk comics to narratives told in everyday interaction Herman considers storytelling both as a target for interpretation and as a resource for making sense of experience itself In doing so he puts ideas from narrative scholarship into dialogue with such fields as psycholinguistics philosophy of mind and cognitive social and ecological psychology After exploring ways in which interpreters of stories can use textual cues to build narrative worlds or storyworlds Herman investigates how this process of narrative worldmaking in turn supports efforts to understand and engage with the conduct of persons among other aspects of lived experience
