, 1997 Dynamics of Memory and Identity in Contemporary Europe Eric Langenbacher, Bill Niven, Ruth Wittlinger, 2013-03-01 The collapse of the Iron Curtain the renationalization of eastern Europe and the simultaneous eastward expansion of the European Union have all impacted the way the past is remembered in today's eastern Europe At the same time in recent years the Europeanization of Holocaust memory and a growing sense of the need to stage a more self critical memory has significantly changed the way in which western Europe commemorates and memorializes the past The increasing dissatisfaction among scholars with the blanket undifferentiated use of the term collective memory is evolving in new directions This volume brings the tension into focus while addressing the state of memory theory itself

The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema Temenuga Trifonova, 2020-07-09 The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema explores contemporary debates around the concepts of Europe and European identity through an examination of recent European films dealing with various aspects of globalization the refugee crisis labour migration the resurgence of nationalism and ethnic violence neoliberalism post colonialism with a particular attention to the figure of the migrant and the ways in which this figure challenges us to rethink Europe and its core Enlightenment values citizenship justice ethics liberty tolerance and hospitality in a post national context of ephemerality volatility and contingency that finds people desperately looking for firmer markers of identity The book argues that a compelling case can be made for re orienting the study of contemporary European cinema around the figure of the migrant viewed both as a symbolic figure representing post national citizenship urbanization the gap between ethics and justice and as a figure occupying an increasingly central place in European cinema in general rather than only in what is usually called migrant and diasporic cinema By drawing attention to the structural and affective affinities between the experience of migrants and non migrants Europeans and non Europeans Trifonova shows that it is becoming increasingly difficult to separate stories about migration from stories about life under neoliberalism in general

Multiplicity of Nationalism in Contemporary Europe Ireneusz Paweł Karolewski, Andrzej Marcin Suszycki, 2010-01-01 Nationalism remains one of the key political societal and socio psychological phenomena in contemporary Europe The international scholars assembled in this edited collection suggest that the use of three perspectives supranationalism boundary making nationalism and regional nationalism may be promising as an explanatory framework for the analysis of nationalism in Europe The volume distances itself from older dichotomies such as civic and ethnic nationalism and questions the one sided normativity of nationalism in particular regarding the concept of liberal nationalism It argues that a promising approach to contemporary nationalism should reflect the multiplicity of nationalism presents its economic political legal and social trajectory from the middle of the last century to the present Contemporary Europe covers some of these issues in an interdisciplinary framework aiming to situate the development of the European Union in a broader context of pan European and global processes Europe has been cut down to size but it does not have to become a global backwater and the study of contemporary Europe s institutional reality does not have to be boring The book counter this misperception conveying the essential facts and theories of contemporary European reality in a clear and approachable analysis It will serve as a readable introduction both to the academic field of European studies and to contemporary Europe itself

Media and Identity in Contemporary Europe Richard Collins, 2002 Chapters focus on technological change and its impact on cultural and political identities the role of the cultural industries in the New Economy and the impact of European integration on national institutions public service broadcasting in particular Because technological change in broadcasting has enabled us to open up media markets the shape of media and of society has become more internationally oriented Indeed modern international media has brought into question the very legitimacy of national communities and ideologies And this is a phenomenon whose greatest impact has been in Europe These studies address the future of public service broadcasting and the power of national regulators to shape trans national media relationships The author takes an empirical approach to analysis of these issues exploring media and communication studies very much as a social science
