From Brown to Meredith Tracy E. K'Meyer, 2013-08-05 When the Supreme Court overturned Louisville's local desegregation plan in 2007 the people of Jefferson County Kentucky faced the question of whether and how to maintain racial diversity in their schools This debate came at a time when scholars pundits and much of the public had declared school integration a failed experiment rightfully abandoned Using oral history narratives newspaper accounts and other documents Tracy E K Meyer exposes the disappointments of desegregation draws attention to those who struggled for over five decades to bring about equality and diversity and highlights the many benefits of school integration K Meyer chronicles the local response to Brown v Board of Education in 1956 and describes the start of countywide busing in 1975 as well as the crisis sparked by violent opposition to it She reveals the forgotten story of the defense of integration and busing reforms in the 1980s and 1990s culminating in the response to the 2007 Supreme Court decision known as Meredith This long and multifaceted struggle for school desegregation K Meyer shows informs the ongoing movement for social justice in Louisville and beyond

Literacy and Mobility Brice Nordquist, 2017-04-28 Pushing forward research on emerging literacies and theoretical orientations this book follows students from different tracks of high school English in a failing U S public school through their first two years in universities colleges and jobs Analytical and methodological tools from new literacy and mobility studies are employed to investigate relations among patterns of movement and literacy practices across educational institutions neighborhoods cultures and national borders By following research participants trajectories in and across scenes of literacy in school college home online in transit and elsewhere the work illustrates how students help constitute and connect one scene of literacy with others in their daily lives how their mobile literacies produce maintain and disrupt social relations and identities with respect to race gender class language and nationality and how they draw upon multiple literacies and linguistic resources to accommodate resist and transform dominant discourses

Color and Character Pamela Grundy, 2017-08-08 At a time when race and inequality dominate national debates the story of West Charlotte High School illuminates the possibilities and challenges of using racial and economic desegregation to foster educational equality West Charlotte opened in 1938 as a segregated school that embodied the aspirations of the growing African American population of Charlotte North Carolina In the 1970s when Charlotte began court ordered busing black and white families made West Charlotte the celebrated flagship of the most integrated major school system in the nation But as the twentieth century neared its close and a new court order eliminated race based busing Charlotte schools resegregated along lines of class as well as race West Charlotte became the city's poorest lowest performing high school a striking reminder of the people and places that Charlotte's rapid growth had left behind While dedicated teachers continue to educate children the school's challenges underscore the painful consequences of resegregation Drawing on nearly two decades of interviews with students educators and alumni Pamela Grundy uses the history of a community's beloved school to tell a broader American story of education community democracy and race all while raising questions about present day strategies for school reform
