Mapping Multiple Literacies Diana Masny, David R. Cole, 2012-06-14. Mapping Multiple Literacies brings together the latest theory and research in the fields of literacy study and European philosophy. Multiple Literacies Theory (MLT) and the philosophical work of Gilles Deleuze. It frames the process of becoming literate as a fluid process involving multiple modes of presentation and explains these processes in terms of making maps of our social lives and ways of doing things together. For Deleuze, language acquisition is a social activity of which we are a part but only one part amongst many others. Masny and Cole draw on Deleuze's thinking to expand the repertoires of literacy research and understanding. They outline how we can understand literacy as a social activity and map the ways in which becoming literate may take hold and transform communities. The chapters in this book weave together theory, data and practice to open up a creative new area of literacy studies and to provoke vigorous debate about the sociology of literacy.

Reading and Experience: A Philosophical Investigation Alexander Samely, 2024-06-10. This text is the first comprehensive attempt in decades to integrate reading into the philosophical discussion of the synthesis of experience more generally. It offers a comprehensive critique of three disciplinary approaches to reading: philosophical, literary and empirical/neuroscientific, while developing an innovative and unifying phenomenological account. It discusses texts from a variety of contemporary and historical contexts. It is inclusive, treating non-fiction alongside fiction, literary art alongside everyday texts and narrative alongside thematic discourse. It addresses all reading practices found today: casual and unreflective reading, close and scholarly reading, with re-reading, the analysis of literary art and sacred text study and memorization. In the current intellectual landscape, the book is unique in bringing all these aspects together in a philosophically coherent discussion. The book provides a critique of philosophical accounts of text meaning and linguistic experience by philosophers from Husserl and Ingarden to Sartre, Merleau-Ponty, Arendt, Gadamer and Derrida, and examines the positions of contemporary naturalizing phenomenologists such as Varela and Thompson. Also treated are neuroscientists.

Emotion in the Digital Age Darren Ellis, Ian Tucker, 2020-10-08 Emotion in the Digital Age examines how emotion is understood researched and experienced in relation to practices of digitisation and datafication said to constitute a digital age The overarching concern of the book is with how emotion operates in through and with digital technologies The digital landscape is vast and as such the authors focus on four key areas of digital practice artificial intelligence social media mental health and surveillance Interrogating each area shows how emotion is commodified symbolised shared and experienced and as such operates in multiple dimensions This includes tracing the emotional impact of early mass media e.g. cinema through to efforts to programme AI agents with skills in emotional communication e.g. mental health chatbots This timely study offers theoretical empirical and practical insight regarding the ways that digitisation is changing knowledge and experience of emotion and affective life Crucially this involves both the multiple versions of digital technologies designed to engage with emotion e.g. emotional AI through to the broader emotional impact of living in digitally saturated environments The authors argue that this constitutes a psycho-social way of being in which digital technologies and emotion operate as key dimensions of the ways we simultaneously relate to ourselves as individual subjects and to others as part of collectives As such Emotion in the Digital Age will prove important reading for students and researchers in emotion studies psychology science and technology studies sociology and related fields

Critical Semiotics Gary Genosko, 2016-09-22 Critical Semiotics provides long overdue answers to questions at the junction of information meaning and affect The affective turn in cultural studies has received much attention a focus on the pre individual bodily forces linked to automatic responses which augment or diminish the body's capacity to act or engage with others In a world dominated by information how do things that seem to have diminished meaning or even no meaning still have so much power to affect us or to carry on our ability to affect the world Linguistics and semiotics have been accused of being adrift from the affective turn and not accounting for these visceral forces beneath or generally other from conscious knowing In this book Gary Genosko delivers a detailed refutation with analyses of specific contributions to critical semiotic approaches to meaning and signification People want to understand how other people are moved and to understand embodied social actions feelings and passions at the same time as understanding how this takes place Semiotics must make the affective turn
