

Behind the Silver Screen - Producing Movies in the 1920s

When we step into the shoes of a movie director from the 1920s, we are transported to an era of rapid innovation and transformation in the world of cinema. The methods and practices of filmmaking were vastly different compared to what we know today. This was a decade that saw the transition from silent films to the introduction of the "talkies," laying the foundation of the film industry as we know it.

The Dawn of a New Era

The 1920s marked the advent of a new era in filmmaking. Films were shot on black-and-white nitrate film, a material that was highly flammable and required careful handling. The cameras of that era were large, cumbersome, and lacked the modern technological advancements we take for granted today. They were hand-cranked, with the speed of the crank determining the speed at which the film was shot. This was a time when filmmaking was more physical and hands-on.
