

The background of the cover is a photograph of a sea kayak on a body of water. The kayak is green and black, with a person inside. The water is dark and choppy. In the background, there is a bright light source, possibly the sun, creating a strong glare on the water. The surrounding landscape is green and hilly.

On Celtic Tides Chris Duff, 2024-07-02 Duff's fascinating account of his twelve hundred mile journey around the Irish coast is a story of discovery of courage and perseverance and life Irish Voice A sea kayak battles the freezing Irish waters as the morning sun rises out of the countryside On the western horizon is the pinnacle of Skellig Michael 700 feet of vertical rock rising out of exploding seas Somewhere on the isolated island are sixth century monastic ruins where the light of civilization was kept burning during the Dark Ages by early Christian Irish monks Puffins surface a few yards from the boat as hundreds of gannets wheel overhead on six foot wing spans The ocean rises violently and tosses paddler and boat as if they were discarded flotsam This is just one day of Chris Duff's incredible three month journey I recommend you take a ride at wave level with Chris Duff as he fights his way through ferocious seas then brings you closer to a truly enchanted isle David Hays coauthor of the New York Times bestseller My Old Man and the Sea His attention to detail and the vividness of his descriptions place the reader in the kayak with him We feel the heaviness of the dense fog each violent wave the aching muscles as he gingerly navigates the treacherous water and the warmth of the morning sun as it beckons further travel Best of all he offers us a peek into the hearts of the Irish people The Oakland Press Here is a fine old fashioned travelogue Duff sallies forth and returns with a magical story for those left behind Kirkus Reviews

Water Worlds: Human Geographies of the Ocean Kimberley Peters, 2016-02-11 Our world is a water world Seventy percent of our planet consists of ocean However geography has traditionally overlooked this vital component of the earth's composition The word geography directly translates as earth writing and in line with this definition the discipline has preoccupied itself with the study of terrestrial spaces of society and nature This book challenges human geography's preoccupation with the terrestrial investigating the terra incognita of the seas and oceans Linking to new theoretical debates shaping the geographic discipline such as affect assemblage emotion hybridity and the more than human this volume unlocks new knowledge concerning the human geographies of ocean space The book casts adrift stable bounded and fixed conceptions of space and advances geographical understanding based on the world as becoming changing mobile and processional This ontology supports the notion that the oceans are not simply fluid in a literal way but also in a conceptual sense suggesting that the seas have their own fluid natures their own capacities and agencies which are co fabricated with social and cultural life This book features twelve chapters authored by key academics contributing to this growing field of research The book is divided into three sections including an Introduction by the editors and a foreword by Prof Philip E Steinberg the leading scholar in the field of maritime geographies The first section of the book considers the ways in which different watery spaces from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mediterranean Sea have been conceptualized theorized and known through metaphors voyages of discovery and scientific endeavour The second section examines how oceans are experienced through various activities including driving on water kayaking in water and diving under water The final section explores the relations between human life and the nature of the sea as a material mobile and more than human spa      Making Ireland Irish Eric G. E. Zuelow, 2009-03-01

From the dark shadow of civil war to the pastel painted towns of today Making Ireland Irish provides a sweeping account of the evolution of the Irish tourist industry over the twentieth century Drawing on an extensive array of previously untapped or underused sources Eric G E Zuelow examines how a small group of tourism advocates inspired by tourist development movements in countries such as France and Spain worked tirelessly to convince their Irish compatriots that tourism was the secret to Ireland s success Over time tourism went from being a national joke to a national interest Men and women from across Irish society joined in eager to help shape their country and culture for visitors eyes The result was Ireland as it is depicted today a land of blue skies smiling faces pastel towns natural beauty ancient history and timeless traditions With lucid prose and vivid detail Zuelow explains how careful planning transformed Irish towns and villages from grey and unattractive to bright and inviting sanitized Irish history to avoid offending Ireland s largest tourist market the English and supplanted traditional rural fairs revolving around muddy animals and featuring sexually suggestive ceremonies with new family friendly festivals and events filling today s tourist calendar By challenging existing notions that the Irish tourist product is either timeless or the consequence of colonialism Zuelow demonstrates that the development of tourist imagery and Irish national identity was not the result of a handful of elites or a postcolonial legacy but rather the product of an extended discussion that ultimately involved a broad cross section of society both inside and outside Ireland Tourism he argues played a vital role in making Ireland Irish      Ireland Through Birds Conor W.
