The Evolved Eater Nick Taranto, 2018-03-06 From the co founder of Plated the home delivery food service an inspirational business title that is a call to arms and investigation into the industrial American food complex In early 2012 Nick Taranto was twenty seven years old recently married and fresh out of the Marine Corps He moved back to New York City started working on Wall Street and put on twenty pounds in under six months He was pasty overweight and depressed and he knew there had to be a better way to eat and live The Evolved Eater chronicles his quest to change how we eat and what this means for the future of food As the co founder of Plated which has delivered tens of millions of meals across the country in its first five years Taranto cares about the food we eat As Evolved Eaters we strive to continually improve and evolve as we grow through life And eating and being close to the food you cook and consume is an inseparable part of this evolution Americans throw away over 300 billion pounds of food each year while millions of children are food insecure or poorly nourished How did the most food abundant nation in history get this vital issue so wrong Taranto provides eye opening facts about how we acquire and eat food and easy and practical things that you can do to improve the way you eat and live starting today Eating doesn't need to be complicated or painful or over thought We're starting The Evolved Eater revolution right here right now

Consuming Identity Ashli Quesinberry Stokes, Wendy Atkins-Sayre, 2016-11-02 Southerners love to talk food quickly revealing likes and dislikes regional preferences and their own delicious stories Because the topic often crosses lines of race class gender and region food supplies a common fuel to launch discussion Consuming Identity sifts through the self definitions allegiances and bonds made possible and strengthened through the theme of southern foodways The book focuses on the role food plays in building identities accounting for the messages food sends about who we are how we see ourselves and how we see others While many volumes examine southern food this one is the first to focus on food's rhetorical qualities and the effect that it can have on culture The volume examines southern food stories that speak to the identity of the region explain how food helps to build identities and explore how it enables cultural exchange Food acts rhetorically with what we choose to eat and serve sending distinct messages It also serves a vital identity building function factoring heavily into our memories narratives and understanding of who we are Finally because food and the tales surrounding it are so important to southerners the rhetoric of food offers a significant and meaningful way to open up dialogue in the region By sharing and celebrating both foodways and the food itself southerners are able to revel in shared histories and traditions In this way individuals find a common language despite the divisions of race and class that continue to plague the South The rich subject of southern fare serves up a significant starting point for understanding the powerful rhetorical potential of all food
