the bay The vessel we sought lay with her main topsail aback about a league from the land and was the only object that broke the broad expanse of the ocean On approaching she turned out to be a small slatternly looking craft her hull and spars a dingy black rigging all slack and bleached nearly white and everything denoting an ill state of affairs aboard The four boats hanging from her sides proclaimed her a whaler Leaning carelessly over the bulwarks were the sailors wild haggard looking fellows in Scotch caps and faded blue frocks some of them with cheeks of a mottled bronze to which sickness soon changes the rich berry brown of a seaman's complexion in the tropics On the quarter deck was one whom I took for the chief mate He wore a broad brimmed Panama hat and his spy glass was levelled as we advanced When we came alongside a low cry ran fore and aft the deck and everybody gazed at us with inquiring eyes And well they might To say nothing of the sayage boat s crew panting with excitement all gesture and vociferation my own appearance was calculated to excite curiosity A robe of the native cloth was thrown over my shoulders my hair and beard were uncut and I betrayed other evidences of my recent adventure Immediately on gaining the deck they beset me on all sides with questions the half of which I could not answer so incessantly were they put As an instance of the curious coincidences which often befall the sailor I must here mention that two countenances before me were familiar One was that of an old man of war s man whose acquaintance I had made in Rio de Janeiro at which place touched the ship in which I sailed from home The other was a young man whom four years previous I had frequently met in a sailor boarding house in Liverpool I remembered parting with him at Prince's Dock Gates in the midst of a swarm of police officers trackmen stevedores beggars and the like And here we were again years had rolled by many a league of ocean had been traversed and we were thrown together under circumstances which almost made me doubt my own existence But a few moments passed ere I was sent for into the cabin by the captain OMOO A NARRATIVE OF ADV IN THE
