On Flinching Theatricality And Scientific Looking From Darwin To Shell Shock:

On Flinching Tiffany Watt-Smith, 2014-04 On Flinching explores the cultural history of flinches winces cringes and starts in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Taking the flinches of scientific observers as its starting point it likens scientific experiments to the emotional interactions between audiences and actors in the theatre of this period On Flinching Tiffany Watt Smith, 2014-05-22 While the end of the nineteenth century is often associated with the rise of objectivity and its ideal of a restrained observer scientific experiments continued to create emotional even theatrical relationships between scientist and his subject On Flinching focuses on moments in which scientific observers flinched from sudden noises winced at the sight of an animal's pain or cringed when he was caught looking as ways to consider a distinctive motif of passionate and gestured looking in the laboratory and beyond It was not their laboratory machines who these scientific observers most closely resembled but the self consciously emotional theatrical audiences of the period Tiffany Watt Smith offers close readings of four experiments performed by the naturalist Charles Darwin the physiologist David Ferrier the neurologist Henry Head and the psychologist Arthur Hurst Bringing together flinching scientific observers with actors and spectators in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century theatre it places the history of scientific looking in its wider cultural context arguing that even at the dawn of objectivity the techniques and problems of the stage continued to haunt scientific life In turn it suggests that by exploring the ways recoiling shrinking and wincing becoming paradigmatic spectatorial gestures in this period we can understand the ways Victorians thought about looking as itself an emotional and gestured performance The Cambridge Companion to Theatre and Science Kirsten Shepherd-Barr, 2020-12-03 The first ever companion to theatre and science brings together research on key topics performances and new areas of interest

Theatricality and Performativity Teemu Paavolainen, 2018-04-06 This book defines theatricality and performativity through metaphors of texture and weaving drawn mainly from anthropologist Tim Ingold and philosopher Stephen C Pepper Tracing the two concepts various relations to practices of seeing and doing but also to conflicting values of novelty and normativity the study proceeds in a series of intertwining threads from the theatrical to the performative Antitheatrical Plato the Baroque Michael Fried Pro theatrical directors Wagner Fuchs Meyerhold Brecht and Brook Dramatic weaving memory in Shaffer's Amadeus and Beckett's Footfalls Efficient from modernist machines for living in to the smart home Activist knit graffiti clown patrols and the Anthropocene An approach is developed in which performativity names the way we tacitly weave worlds and identities variously concealed or clarified by the step aside tactics of theatricality Performing Nerves Anna Furse, 2020-05-14 Academic interest in hysteria has burgeoned in recent decades The topic has been probed by feminist theorists cultural studies specialists literary scholars anthropologists sociologists psychologists medical and art historians as well as novelists The hysteric is construed as a powerless voiceless subject marginalised by the forces of the patriarchy that have been the root cause of their distress dissembling and disablement In Performing Nerves Anna Furse interweaves her artistic and academic practice drawing on her own performance texts to explore four different versions of debilitating hysteric suffering Each text is extensively annotated revealing the dramaturgical logic and in turn the historical medical and cultural contexts behind their protagonists illnesses which are argued as environmentally caused in each case This unique reflective insight into a playwright and director s craft offers not only an account of how mental suffering can manifest in different contexts and times from the 19th century to today but also a breadth of access to the ideas that can motivate creative research This book is an invaluable resource for scholars of theatre studies performance studies dramaturgy 20th century history gender studies and medical humanities

Weeping Britannia Thomas Dixon, 2015-09-10 There is a persistent myth about the British that we are a nation of stoics with stiff upper lips repressed emotions and inactive lachrymal glands Weeping Britannia the first history of crying in Britain comprehensively debunks this myth Far from being a persistent element in the national character the notion of the British stiff upper lip was in fact the product of a relatively brief and militaristic period of our past from about 1870 to 1945 In earlier times we were a nation of proficient sometimes virtuosic moral weepers To illustrate this perhaps surprising fact Thomas Dixon charts six centuries of weeping Britons and theories about them from the medieval mystic Margery Kempe in the early fifteenth century to Paul Gascoigne s famous tears in the semi finals of the 1990 World Cup In between the book includes the tears of some of the most influential figures in British history from Oliver Cromwell to Margaret Thatcher not forgetting George III Queen Victoria Charles Darwin and Winston Churchill along the way But the history of weeping in Britain is not simply one of famous tear stained individuals These tearful micro histories all contribute to a bigger picture of changing emotional ideas and styles over the centuries touching on many other fascinating areas of our history For instance the book also investigates the histories of painting literature theatre music and the cinema to discover how and why people have been moved to tears by the arts from the sentimental paintings and novels of the eighteenth century and the romantic music of the nineteenth to Hollywood weepies expressionist art and pop music in the twentieth century Weeping Britannia is simultaneously a museum of tears and a philosophical handbook using history to shed new light on the changing nature of Britishness over time as well as the ever shifting ways in which we express and understand our emotional lives The story that emerges is one in which a previously rich religious and cultural history of producing and interpreting tears was almost completely erased by the rise of a stoical and repressed British empire in the late nineteenth century Those forgotten philosophies of tears and feeling can now be rediscovered In the process readers might perhaps come to view their own tears in a different light as something more than mere emotional incontinence

Health Education Films in the Twentieth Century Christian Bonah, 2018 In 1949 the U S National Cancer Institute NCI and the Canadian Department of National Health and Welfare DNHW commissioned a film eventually called Challenge Science Against Cancer as part of a major effort to recruit young scientists into cancer research Both organizations feared that poor recruitment would stifle the development of the field at a time when funding for research was growing dramatically The fear was that there would not be enough new young scientists to meet the demand and that the shortfall would undermine cancer research and the hopes invested in it Challenge aimed to persuade young scientists to think of cancer research as a career This book is the story of that forgotten film and what it tells us about mid twentieth century American and Canadian cancer research educational filmmaking and health education campaigns It explores why Canadian and American health agencies turned to film to address the problem of scientist recruitment how filmmakers turned such recruitment concerns into something they thought would work as a film and how information officers at the NCI and DNHWSought to shape the impact of Challenge by embedding it in a broader educational and propaganda program It is in short an account of the important but hitherto undocumented roles of filmmakers and information officers in the promotion of post Second World War cancer research

Discourses of Care Amy Holdsworth, Karen Lury, Hannah Tweed, 2020-05-28 Bringing together scholars from film and television studies media and cultural studies literary studies medical humanities and disability studies Discourses of Care collectively examines how the analysis of media texts and practices can contribute to scholarship on and understandings of health and social care and how existing research focusing on the ethics of care can inform our understanding of media Featuring a critical introductory essay and 13 specially commissioned original chapters this is the first edited collection to address the relationship between media and the concept and practice of care and caregiving Contributors consider the representation of care and caregiving through a range of forms and practices the television documentary photography film non theatrical cinema tabloid media autobiography and public service broadcasting and engage with the labour as well as the practical and ethical dimensions of media production Together they offer an original and wide ranging exploration of the various ways in which media forms represent articulate and operate within caring relationships and practices of care whether this is between individuals communities as well as audiences and institutions

Staging Science Martin Willis, 2016-06-09 This book considers scientific performances across two centuries from the early nineteenth century to the present day Performances include demonstrations of technologies experiments that look like theatre theatre that looks like science tourist representations and natural history film making Its key aim is to open debate on how scientific activity both historical and contemporary might be understood in the context of performance studies and the imaginative acts required to stage engaging performances Scientific performances have become increasingly of interest to historians of science literature and science scholars and in the field of science studies As yet however no work has sought to examine a range of scientific performances with the aim of interrogating and illuminating the kinds of critical and theoretical practices that might be employed to engage with them With scientific performance likely to become ever more central to scholarly study in the next few years this volume offer a timely and early intervention in the existing debates and aims too to be a touchstone for future work

Writing Embodiment in Victorian Microscopy Meegan Kennedy, 2024-12-02 Writing Embodiment in Victorian Microscopy examines a revolutionary period in microscopical technology and practice At first considered a mere toy by 1900 the microscope rivaled the railway and telegraph as an emblem of modernity and enjoyed an astonishing diversity of applications This technology could drive scientific debates on subjects like cell theory vitalism and bacteriology guide workers in classrooms laboratories and businesses and inspire a personal hobby or a mass entertainment Victorian microscopy productively cuts across the ostensibly separate domains of science religion commerce art education entertainment and domestic life Writing Embodiment reads nineteenth century microscopy across scientific literary religious and popular texts It argues that Victorian microscopists saw their vision and cognition as fully embodied experiences the images emerging through a material entanglement of bodies observer instrument apparatus object in a dynamic unstable system These ideas echo the work of physiological psychologists who proposed mind as a system of embodied distributed and dynamic processes shaped by automatic or unconscious reflex action attention mental training and fatigue Striving to regulate this complex system microscopists circulated tropes of embodiment through the varied forms of nineteenth century print culture They adapted existing concepts such as beauty the sublime natural theology and fairylands or coined new phrases such as many sided comprehension to promote favored forms of embodiment and enculturate microscopy as a difficult but valuable pursuit Beautiful Mechanism draws on important work in book history and periodical studies by emphasizing the circulation of these tropes in intermedial conversations across diverse print forms Victorians understood wonder and skepticism not as incommensurate approaches to scientific observation but rather as complementary forms of embodiment Romantic tropes of wonder solicit affective flows from observer to wriggling animalcule and back while skeptical realist tropes offer to train the reader s eye hand body and judgment and to formalize microscopical practice Microscopical narratives may manipulate wonder and skepticism in productive tension or create virtual storyspaces that enlist the reader in virtual witnessing These tropes shape every level of microscopical interest and proficiency By analyzing their use and circulation Writing Embodiment illuminates wider patterns of Victorian thought on embodiment scientific practice and community

Mimicry and Display in Victorian Literary Culture Will Affect Theory and Literary Critical Practice Stephen Ahern,2018-12-31 Affect Theory and Literary Critical Practice develops new approaches to reading literature that are informed by the insights of scholars working in affect studies across many disciplines with essays that consider works of fiction drama poetry and memoir ranging from the medieval to the postmodern While building readings of representative texts contributors reflect on the value of affect theory to literary critical practice asking what explanatory power is affect theory affording me here as a critic what can the insights of the theory help me do with a text Contributors work to incorporate lines of theory not always read together accounting for the affective intensities that circulate through texts and readers and tracing the operations of affectively charged social scripts Drawing variously on queer feminist and critical race theory and informed by ecocritical and new materialist sensibilities essays in the volume share a critical practice founded in an ethics of relation and contribute to an emerging postcritical moment

Victorian Automata Suzy Anger, Thomas Vranken, 2024-03-20 The relationship between lifelike machines and mechanistic human behaviour provoked both fascination and anxiety in Victorian culture This collection is the first to examine the widespread cultural interest in automata both human and mechanical in the nineteenth century It was in the Victorian period that industrialization first met information technology and that theories of physical and mental human automatism became essential to both scientific and popular understandings of thought and action Bringing together essays by a multidisciplinary group of leading scholars this volume explores what it means to be human in a scientific and industrial age It also considers how Victorian inquiry and practices continue to shape current thought on race creativity mind and agency This title is part of the Flip it Open programme and may also be available Open Access Check our website Cambridge Core for details

The Routledge Research Companion to Nineteenth-Century British Literature and Science John Holmes, Sharon Ruston, 2017-05-18 Tracing the continuities and trends in the complex relationship between literature and science in the long nineteenth century this companion provides scholars with a comprehensive authoritative and up to date foundation for research in this field In intellectual material and social terms the transformation undergone by Western culture over the period was unprecedented Many of these changes were grounded in the growth of science Yet science was not a cultural monolith then any more than it is now and its development was shaped by competing world views To cover the full range of literary engagements with science in the nineteenth century this companion consists of twenty seven chapters by experts in the field which explore crucial social and intellectual contexts for the interactions between literature and science how science affected different genres of writing and the importance of individual scientific disciplines and concepts within literary culture Each chapter has its own extensive bibliography The volume as a whole is rounded out with a synoptic introduction by the editors and an afterword by the eminent historian of nineteenth century science Bernard Lightman

The Cambridge Companion to English Melodrama Carolyn Williams, 2018-10-04 This newly commissioned series of essays by leading scholars is the first volume to offer both an overview of the field and also current emerging critical views on the history form and influence of English melodrama Authoritative voices provide an introduction to melodrama s early formal features such as tableaux and music and trace the development of the genre in the nineteenth century through the texts and performances of its various sub genres the theatres within which the plays were performed and the audiences who watched them The historical contexts of melodrama are considered through essays on topics including contemporary politics class gender race and empire And the extensive influences of melodrama are demonstrated through a wide ranging assessment of its ongoing and sometimes unexpected expressions in psychoanalysis in other art forms the novel film television musical theatre and in popular culture generally from the nineteenth to the twenty first century

explores the role of live animals on the stage from the early modern era to the present time The contributors deal with visual and textual representations of performing animals typologies of animals in the theatre the hybridization of the drama with the circus the zoo and the cinema as well as the semiotic transfer of animal roles from the text to the stage The focus lies on the changing historical fortunes of the four footed actor and on exploring the ways that attitudes to the animal affect their dramatic representations within aesthetic contexts but also in their dramatized scientific use Exploring snapshots of acting animals from their earliest manifestation on the early modern stage the chapters contextualize and theorize particular uses of the animal actor and key into current debates on the cutting edge of animal performance studies While seeking to consider how these theoretical perspectives were formed the collection delves into the multiple ways through which the animal presence problematizes the practice of theatricality This book was originally published as a special issue of Studies in Theatre and Performance Artful Experiments Philipp Erchinger, 2018-09-30 Reads Victorian literature and science as artful practices that surpass the theories and discourses supposed to contain them Literary Neurophysiology Randall Knoper, 2021-09-23 Writing about the brain and the nervous system more than a century ago what were U S authors doing Literary Neurophysiology Memory Race Sex and Representation in U S Writing 1860 1914 examines their use of literature to experiment with the new materialist psychology a science that was challenging their capacity to represent reality and forging new understandings of race and sexuality Late nineteenth and early twentieth century authors sometimes emulated scientific epistemology allowing their art and conceptions of creativity to be reshaped by it but more often they imaginatively investigated neurophysiological theories challenging and rewriting scientific explanations of human identity and behavior By enfolded physiological experimentation into literary inquiries that could nonreductively account for psychological and social complexities beyond the reach of the laboratory they used literature as a cognitive medium Mark Twain W D Howells and Gertrude Stein come together as they probe the effects on mimesis and creativity of reflex based automatisms and unconscious meaning making Oliver Wendell Holmes explores conceptions of racial nerve force elaborated in population statistics and biopolitics while W E B Du Bois and Pauline Hopkins contest notions of racial energy used to predict the extinction of African Americans Holmes explores new definitions of sexual inversion as in divergent ways Whitman and John Addington Symonds evaluate relations among nerve force human fecundity and the supposed grave of nonreproductive sex Carefully tracing entanglements and conflicts between literary culture and mental science of this period Knoper reveals unexpected connections among these authors and fresh insights into the science they confronted Considering their writing as cognitive practice he provides a new understanding of literary realism and of the emergent distinction between literary and scientific knowledge The Nervous Stage Matthew Wilson Smith, 2018 The Nervous Stage examines the relations between theatrical practices and the scientific study of the nervous system A Cultural History of Theatre in the Age of Empire Peter Marx, 2019-08-08 The 19th century ushered in an unprecedented boom in technology the unification of

European nations the building of global empires and stabilization of the middle classes The theatre of the era reflected these significant developments as well as helped to catalyse them Populist theatre and purposebuilt playhouses flourished in the ever growing urban and cosmopolitan centres of Europe and in expanding global networks This volume provides a comprehensive and interdisciplinary overview of the cultural history of theatre from 1800 to 1920 Highly illustrated with 51 images the ten chapters each take a different theme as their focus institutional frameworks social functions sexuality and gender the environment of theatre circulation interpretations communities of production repertoire and genres technologies of performance and knowledge transmission
