No Family History The Environmental Links To Breast Cancer New Social Formations:

No Family History Sabrina McCormick, 2009-06-16 No Family History presents compelling evidence of environmental links to breast cancer ranging from everyday cosmetics to industrial waste Sabrina McCormick weaves the story of one survivor with no family history into a powerful exploration of the big business of breast cancer As drugs pink products and corporate sponsorships generate enormous revenue to find a cure a growing number of experts argue that we should instead increase focus on prevention reducing environmental exposures that have contributed to the sharp increase of breast cancer rates But the dollars continue to pour into the search for a cure and the companies that profit including some pharmaceutical and cosmetics companies may in fact contribute to the environmental causes of breast cancer No Family History shows how profits drive our public focus on the cure rather than prevention and suggests new ways to reduce breast cancer rates in the future

Contested Illnesses Phil Brown, Rachel Morello-Frosch, Stephen Zavestoski, 2011-12-26 The politics and science of health and disease remain contested terrain among scientists health practitioners policy makers industry communities and the public Stakeholders in disputes about illnesses or conditions disagree over their fundamental causes as well as how they should be treated and prevented This thought provoking book crosses disciplinary boundaries by engaging with both public health policy and social science asserting that science activism and policy are not separate issues and showing how the contribution of environmental factors in disease is often overlooked
