No Place for Ethics T. Patrick Hill, 2021-10-01 In No Place for Ethics Hill argues that contemporary judicial review by the U S Supreme Court rests on its mistaken positivist understanding of law law simply because so ordered as something separate from ethics Further to assert any relation between the two is to contaminate both either by turning law into an arm of ethics or by making ethics an expression of law This legal positivism was on full display recently when the Supreme Court declared that the CDC was acting unlawfully by extending the eviction moratorium to contain the spread of the Covid 19 Delta variant something that the Court admitted was of indisputable benefit to the public How mistaken however to think that acting for the good of the public is to act unlawfully when actually it is to act ethically and must therefore be lawful To address this mistake Hill contends that an understanding of natural law theory provides the basis for a constitutive relation between ethics and law without confusing their distinct role in answering the basic question how should I behave in society To secure that relation the Court has an overriding responsibility when carrying out its review to do so with reference to normative ethics from which the U S Constitution is derived and to which it is accountable While the Constitution confirms for example the liberty interests of individuals it does not originate those interests which have their origin in human rights that long preceded it Essential to this argument is an appreciation of ethics as objective and based on principles like those of justice truth and reason that ought to inform human behavior at its very springs Applied in an analysis of five major Supreme Court cases this appreciation of ethics reveals how wrongly decided these cases are

No Place to Call Home ,1989 Abstract This publication reports the conclusions of a series of hearing concerning support and services for children in troubled families The Congress has made a commitment to guarantee support in the form of out of home placement when necessary and reunification with their families when possible This report sought to answer several questions including are there fewer unnecessary placements of children out of their homes than previously occurred When children must be placed are there more effective permanent placements than there were ten years ago Are children receiving quality services when they are entrusted to the child welfare system Several failings of the system are revealed while some promising policies innovative strategies and effective programs were found

Disarming the Church Eric A. Seibert, 2018-04-11 If Christians follow the Prince of Peace why do they often behave so violently What can be done to transform the church so that it looks more like Jesus Eric Seibert explores these questions in this important and timely study He builds a biblical and practical case for living nonviolently in all areas of life and urges Christians to reexamine their most fundamental attitudes toward violence warfare and killing Through true stories and careful analysis Seibert demonstrates that it is possible to resolve conflict correct injustice and stop oppression without resorting to violence Many nonviolent alternatives are discussed throughout the book alternatives that can be used in a wide range of situations from dealing with an unwanted intruder at home to removing a dictator from power In a world filled with so much violence hate and fear alternatives like these are desperately needed This book offers hope that a better way is possible one that has the potential to transform the church and change the world So read on and join in This Line is No Place to be Lisa Gualtiere, HomeBase (Organization : San Francisco, Calif.), 1989 Defense, 1980 Beyond Abuse in the Christian Home Catherine Clark Kroeger, Nancy Nason-Clark, Barbara Fisher-Townsend, 2008-08-15 In January 2004 a newly founded evangelical organization called PASCH was formed The word denotes the Passover or time of new beginnings when God kept people safe in their own homes before leading them into freedom from abuse and oppression Yet the word PASCH also stands for Peace and Safety in the Christian Home PASCH began as a small group of therapists sociologists domestic violence experts clergy biblical scholars survivors and dedicated Christians In essence PASCH was born out of the cries confusion and frustration of the people of God As we encountered many horrifying situations of domestic abuse in Christian homes those of us who seek to address various aspects of the issue concluded that we needed a fellowship of concerted study prayer and action It was the dream of Catherine Clark Kroeger that an edited book might emerge from the 2005 and 2006 PASCH conferences in order that the papers presentations and discussions might be widely available We found that to make that happen we needed to work together that each of us possessed one piece of the puzzle and that by God's grace we could collectively begin to put the pieces together The topic of abuse is ugly which is why so many Christians shy away from discussing it But in this volume we have tried to present an accurate faith based analysis of abuse in the Christian family context We hope that various chapters stimulate discussion sometimes debate and in so doing prompt pastor and people to action We call on you the reader to consider the various ideas and perspectives offered throughout the book Hopefully each chapter will prompt you to consider afresh how you conceptualize violence among families of faith Like you the reader the contributors to our collection come from various faith traditions work in different contexts and see the issue in part based on their own narrative and training Yet despite our differences and our ongoing debates we are unanimous that violence has no place in the home Every home should be a safe place every home a shelter When abuse occurs in families of faith it is the responsibility of the church to offer compassion and support to victims and to call those who act abusively to accountability and justice Our edited collection includes Dan Allender speaking from the heart about the impact of the fall on relationships between men and women Al Miles reflecting on his pastoral experience of the difficulties and opportunities of speaking out against violence in Christian families Bruce and Karen McAndless Davis offering one couple's story of the long journey toward accountability and dramatic change Julie Owens retelling her own dramatic story of abuse the life imprisonment of her ex partner and what she wished every pastor knew about domestic violence No Place for Children Steve

Liss,2005-06-01 This work of photojournalism goes inside the system to offer an intimate often disturbing view of children s experiences in juvenile detention Steve Liss photographed and interviewed young detainees their parents and detention and probation officers in Laredo Texas His photographs reveal that these are vulnerable children sometimes as young as ten coping with a detention environment that most adults would find harsh In the accompanying text he brings in the voices of the young people who describe their already fractured lives and fragile dreams as well as the words of their parents and juvenile justice workers who express frustration at not having more resources with which to help these kids BOOK JACKET

Men Who Batter Nancy Nason-Clark PhD, Barbara Fisher-Townsend PhD, 2014-10-01 Men who act abusively have their own story to tell a journey that often begins in childhood ripens in their teenage years and takes them down paths they were hoping to never travel Men Who Batter recounts the journey from the point of view of the men themselves The men's accounts of their lives are told within a broader framework of the agency where they have attended groups and the regional coordinated community response to domestic violence which includes the criminal justice workers e.g. probation parole judges and those who staff shelters and work in advocacy Based on interview data with this wide array of professionals we are able to examine how one community in one western state responds to men who batter Interwoven with this rich and colorful portrayal of the journey of abusive men we bring twenty years of fieldwork with survivors and those who walk alongside them as they seek safety healing and wholeness for themselves and their children Women who have been victimized by the men they love often hold out hope that if only their abusers could be held accountable and receive intervention the violence will stop and their own lives will improve dramatically as a result While the main purpose of Men Who Batter is to highlight the stories of men told from their personal point of view it is countered by reality checks from their own case files and those professionals who have worked with them And finally interspersed within its pages is another theme finding religious faith or spiritual activity in unlikely places

Religion and Intimate Partner Violence Nancy Nason-Clark, Barbara Fisher-Townsend, Catherine Holtmann, Stephen McMullin, 2018 Intimate partner violence is a complex ugly fear inducing reality for large numbers of women around the world When violence exists in a relationship safety is compromised shame abounds and peace evaporates Violence is learned behavior and it flourishes most when it is ignored minimized or misunderstood When it strikes the homes of deeply religious women they are more vulnerable more likely to believe that their abusive partners can and will change less likely to leave a violent home temporarily or forever often reluctant to seek outside sources of assistance and frequently disappointed by the response of the religious leader to their call for help These women often believe they are called by God to endure the suffering to forgive and to keep on forgiving their abuser and to fulfill their marital vows until death do us part Concurrently many batterers employ explicitly religious language to justify the violence towards their partners and sometime they manipulate spiritual leaders who try to offer them help Religion and Intimate Partner Violence seeks to navigate the relatively uncharted waters of intimate partner violence in families of deep faith The program of research on which it is based spans over twenty five years and includes a wide variety of specific studies involving religious leaders congregations battered women men in batterer intervention programs and the army of workers who assist families impacted by abuse including criminal justice workers therapeutic staff advocacy workers and religious leaders The authors provide a rich and colorful portrayal of the intersection of intimate partner violence and religious beliefs and practices that inform and interweave throughout daily life Such a focus on lived religion enables readers to isolate examine and evaluate ways in which religion both augments and thwarts the journey towards justice accountability healing and wholeness for women and men caught in the web of intimate partner violence

,2022-06-13 This volume explores issues and themes related to violence against women. It is distinctive in two ways.
