Party Politics And Economic Reform In Africa's Democracies African Studies:

Party Politics and Economic Reform in Africa's Democracies M. Anne Pitcher, 2012 In Party Politics and Economic Reform in Africa's Democracies M. Anne Pitcher offers an engaging new theory to explain the different trajectories of private sector development across contemporary Africa. Pitcher argues that the outcomes of economic reforms depend not only on the kinds of institutional arrangements adopted by states in order to create or expand their private sectors but also on the nature of party system competition and the quality of democracy in particular countries. To illustrate her claim, Pitcher draws on several original datasets covering twenty-seven countries in Africa and detailed case studies of the privatization process in Zambia, Mozambique, and South Africa. This study underscores the importance of formal institutions and political context to the design and outcome of economic policies in developing countries. Electoral Politics in Africa since 1990 Jaimie Bleck, Nicolas van de Walle, 2019 First comprehensive analysis of electoral politics in Sub-Saharan Africa since the democratic transitions of the early 1990s Democratization and Competitive Authoritarianism in Africa Matthijs Bogaards, Sebastian Elischer, 2016-02-26 The special issue revisits Levitsky and Way's seminal study on Competitive Authoritarianism 2010. The contributions by North American, European, and African scholars deepen our understanding of the emergence, trajectories, and outcomes of hybrid regimes across the African continent. The Oxford Handbook of the Politics of Development Carol Lancaster, Nicolas van de Walle, 2018-05-01 In many discussions of nations' development, we often focus on their economic and social development. Is it becoming wealthier? Is its society modernizing? Is it becoming more technologically sophisticated? Are social outcomes improving for the broad mass of the public? The process of development policy implementation, however, is always and inevitably political. Put simply, regime type matters when it comes to deciding on a course of development to follow. Further, political institutions matter. When a government's institutional capacity is low, the chances of success severely decline, regardless of the merits of the development plan. In The Oxford Handbook of the Politics of Development, two of America's leading political scientists, on the issue, Carol Lancaster and Nicolas van de Walle, have assembled an international cast of leading scholars to craft a broad state-of-the-art work on this vitally important topic. This volume is divided into five sections: major theories of the politics of development; organized historically (e.g., modernization theory, dependency theory, the Washington Consensus of policies without politics, etc.); key domestic factors and variables; key international factors and variables; political systems and structures; and geographical perspectives, inclusive of regional dynamics. A comprehensive and cross-regional examination on key issues.

of political development this Handbook not only provides an authoritative synthesis of past scholarship but also sets the agenda for future research in this discipline

Until We Have Won Our Liberty Evan Lieberman, 2024-09-24 A compelling account of South Africa's post Apartheid democracy At a time when many democracies are under strain around the world Until We Have Won Our Liberty shines new light on the signal achievements of one of the contemporary era's most closely watched transitions away from minority rule South Africa's democratic development has been messy fiercely contested and sometimes violent But as Evan Lieberman argues it has also offered a voice to the voiceless unprecedented levels of government accountability and tangible improvements in quality of life Lieberman opens with a first hand account of the hard fought 2019 national election and how it played out in Mogale City a post Apartheid municipality created from Black African townships and White Afrikaner suburbs From this launching point he examines the complexities of South Africa's multiracial society and the unprecedented democratic experiment that began with the election of Nelson Mandela in 1994 While acknowledging the enormous challenges many South Africans continue to face including unemployment inequality and discrimination Lieberman draws on the country's history and the experience of comparable countries to demonstrate that elected Black led governments have without resorting to political extremism improved the lives of millions In the context of open and competitive politics citizens have gained access to housing basic services and dignified treatment to a greater extent than during any prior period Countering much of the conventional wisdom about contemporary South Africa Until We Have Won Our Liberty offers hope for the enduring impact of democratic ideals

Africa in World Politics John W. Harbeson, Donald Rothchild, 2023-06-23 Africa in World Politics provides advanced undergraduate and graduate students with the perfect introduction to the challenges faced by African states on an increasingly turbulent world stage Africa in World Politics has long served as the go to resource for students of African politics seeking to navigate the continent's complex political and economic landscapes Updated throughout this new edition includes new chapters on the unprecedented challenges the continent faces from climate change and the fallout of the COVID 19 global pandemic Adding to existing coverage of international diplomacy peacebuilding women in politics and the building blocks of political economy the book also includes expanded coverage of the role of China in Africa and fresh perspectives on decolonization Drawing together insights from some of the world's leading scholars of African politics this textbook is an essential read for advanced students of political science and African studies

Power, Patronage, and the Local State in Ghana Barry Driscoll, 2023-07-11 How have the waves of democracy and decentralization that swept the developing world in recent decades affected states among the most important drivers of poverty and prosperity at national and local levels in Ghana and beyond State actors beneath the national level what Barry Driscoll calls the local state have considerable responsibility for carrying out state functions but they are also forced to compete for these local state offices How does a local state actually work in poor twentieth century countries This book offers a descriptive account as well as a causal explanation of how political competition affects the local state in Ghana Driscoll shows how closely fought elections drive local state institutions to provide patronage The source of these demands for patronage comes not from rent seeking bureaucrats or landed elites but from the government s own party volunteers Driscoll explains how electoral competition affects how local state actors are insulated from such patronage demands Moreover these highly competitive patronage providing local governments actually have relatively better qualified senior civil servants at their disposal Driscoll makes sense of this paradox by introducing the logic of building administrative capacity in order to provide patronage He then abstracts from the case of Ghana to generalize about how the effect of political competition is shaped by the locally salient variety of clientelism which in turn is conditioned by the strength of the party system The book draws on fourteen months of fieldwork in six of Ghana s districts far from the nation s capital city Ethnographic and interview data come from time spent with market traders tax collectors politicians and other figures in local state offices Quantitative data come from a survey covering almost all local governments The result is a detailed account of Ghana s local state power dynamics that has relevant implications for states across the developing world

African Studies Series: The Struggle over State Power in Zimbabwe Karekwaivanane, George Hamandishe, Institutions and Democracy in Africa Nic Cheeseman, 2018-02-22 Historically African political institutions such as constitutions legislatures and judiciaries have been seen as weak and vulnerable to manipulation leading some to claim that the continent is institutionless However recent developments including the consolidation of presidential term limits in a number of countries demonstrate that this depiction is no longer tenable By drawing attention to how institutions can shape the practice of politics this book demonstrates that electoral commissions economic regulations and systems of land tenure are vital to our understanding of contemporary Africa A series of cutting edge contributions from leading scholars explain how the rules of the game shape political developments across the continent from Kenya to Nigeria and from Benin to South Africa In chapters that cover bureaucracies constitutions elections political parties the police and more the authors argue that a new research agenda is required if we are to better understand the process of democratisation

Ownership and Governance of Companies Jonathan Michie, Vishnu Padayachee, 2021-06-29 Apartheid South Africa was often thought to run in the interests of the business elite Yet 27 years after apartheid those business interests remain largely entrenched Why Did the South African business community play a role in engineering this outcome perhaps recognising the apartheid era was over and jumping ship in time Conversely the mission of the ANC was widely perceived to be to shift wealth and power into the hands of the whole community Yet despite black empowerment measures corporate ownership remains largely in white hands and certainly in the hands of an elite few even though no longer restricted to whites This picture is replicated across the global south where corporate ownership tends to be concentrated in the hands of an elite rather than being more democratically spread Why have alternative corporate forms not been pursued more vigorously with ownership in the hands of customers employees and local communities In the case of South Africa where the majority of customers and employees are black this could have delivered on the ANC's mission to replace the apartheid era with a democratic one in terms of wealth incomes and power as well as in terms of voting and civic rights This edited volume explores all these questions and looks at ways to align corporate forms with economic and social goals The chapters in this book were originally published as special issues of International Review of Applied Economics African Bargaining Power with China Christina Seyfried, 2023-06-26 This book provides a detailed account of the political economy around investment deal negotiations between African governments and private Chinese investors The book draws on evidence from experiments and hundreds of interviews with policy makers and Chinese investors across Nigeria South Africa Kenya Ethiopia and Tanzania It shows that governments of authoritarian or one party dominant states which are among the top receivers of Chinese investments are able to easily and successfully act collectively to impose human capital and technology transfer requirements The book argues that rather than treating African countries as price takers in the face of increasing Chinese influence in the continent we should instead recognise the significant bargaining leverage that many African governments have to influence deal conditions especially with smaller private Chinese companies It demonstrates that several African governments can instead act as price setters and that the success of the rising Chinese presence in Africa and whether this leads to positive or negative development outcomes fundamentally depends on the development strategies that individual African governments decide on In the context of an often polarised debate the original research presented in this book has important implications for the future economic development strategies of African countries As such it will be of interest to researchers working on Chinese and African investment politics institutions business economics and international relations

The Middle Class in Mozambique Jason Sumich, 2018-10-18 Introduction Origins Asendence Collapse Democracy Decay 2016 concluding thoughts Parties, Political Finance, and Governance in Africa Rachel Sigman, 2023-03-16 A major challenge for the advancement of democratic governance in Africa is the extraction of money by ruling parties from the state to fund their electoral campaigns and gain political advantage over opponents Drawing upon in depth case studies of Benin and Ghana Rachel Sigman considers how and with what consequences party leaders control and access public funds to finance their political operations Weaving together biographical data on government ministers surveys of civil servants elite interviews and archival research Sigman explains leaders extraction strategies and connects these strategies to how politicians manage state personnel In so doing she challenges the perception of African states as uniformly weak and argues that effective government is possible even in contexts of widespread state politicization corruption and clientelism Demonstrating the profound impact that extractive financing practices have on democratic institutions Sigman illuminates and develops our understanding of good governance across the African continent Wealth, Power, and Authoritarian Institutions Michaela Collord, 2024-07-16 Through an analysis of the recent political history of Tanzania and Uganda Wealth Power and Authoritarian Institutions offers a novel explanation of why authoritarian parties and legislatures vary in strength and why this variation matters Michaela Collord elaborates a view of authoritarian political institutions as both reflecting and magnifying elite power dynamics While there are many sources of elite power the book centres on material power It outlines how diverse trajectories of state led capitalist development engender differing patterns of wealth accumulation and elite contestation across regimes These differences in turn influence institutional landscapes Where accumulation is more closely controlled by state and party leaders as was true in Tanzania until economic liberalization in the 1980s rival factions remain subdued Ruling parties can then consolidate relatively strong institutional structures and parliament remains marginal Conversely where a class of private wealth accumulators expands as occurred in Tanzania after the 1980s and in Uganda after the National Resistance Movement took power in 1986 rival factions can more easily form simultaneously eroding party institutions and encouraging greater legislative strength Collord uses this analysis to reassess the significance of a stronger legislature She considers its influence on distributive politics both regressive and progressive She also considers its relation to democratization particularly in a context of broader liberalizing reforms The book ultimately encourages a closer examination of how would be democratic institutions interact with an underlying power distribution shaping in whose interests they operate Oxford Studies in African Politics and International Relations is a series for scholars and students working on African politics and International Relations and related disciplines Volumes concentrate on contemporary developments in African political science political economy and International Relations such as electoral politics democratization decentralization gender and political representation the political impact of natural resources the dynamics and consequences of conflict comparative political thought and the nature of the continent's engagement with the East and West Comparative and mixed methods work is particularly encouraged Case studies are welcomed but should demonstrate the broader theoretical and empirical implications of the study and its wider relevance to contemporary debates The focus of the series is on sub Saharan Africa although proposals that explain how the region engages with North Africa and other parts of the world are of interest General Editors Nic Cheeseman Peace Medie and Ricardo Soares de Oliveira

China's Gilded Age Yuen Yuen Ang, 2020-05-28 Why has China grown so fast for so long despite vast corruption In China's Gilded Age Yuen Yuen Ang maintains that all corruption is harmful but not all types of corruption hurt growth Ang unbundles corruption into four varieties petty theft grand theft speed money and access money While the first three types impede growth access money elite exchanges of power and profit cuts both ways it stimulates investment and growth but produces serious risks for the economy and political system Since market opening corruption in China has evolved toward access money Using a range of data sources the author explains the evolution of Chinese corruption how it differs from the West and other developing countries and how Xi's anti corruption campaign could affect growth and governance In this formidable yet accessible book Ang challenges one dimensional measures of corruption By unbundling the problem and adopting a comparative historical lens she reveals that the rise of capitalism was not accompanied by the eradication of corruption but rather by its evolution from thuggery and theft to access money In doing so she changes the way we think about corruption and capitalism not only in China but around the world Inequality and Political Cleavage in Africa Catherine Boone, 2024-04-25 Extensive data maps and case histories show how competition between rich and poor regions drives African politics not ethnic diversity

Women and Power in Africa Leonardo Rafael Arriola, Martha Johnson, Melanie L. Phillips, 2021 Women and Power in Africa examines women's experiences in African politics as aspirants to public office as candidates in election campaigns and as elected representatives Routledge Handbook of Sport for Development and Peace Holly Collison, Simon C.
