Violence Perpetrators John Devaney, Anne Lazenbatt, 2016-07-15 Domestic violence is a serious widespread public social and health problem that affects the lives of many women children and men There is also evidence to suggest it has one of the highest rates of recidivism This comprehensive book provides an overview of what the research tells us about the perpetrators of domestic violence and what works and what doesn't in promoting positive change Collecting together the most up to date evidence from the international literature and bringing psychological sociological gendered and socio political theoretical perspectives to bear on the issue the authors explore what domestic violence is why it happens and how it can be measured who the perpetrators of domestic violence are including discussion of non stereotypical patterns such as male victims female perpetrators couples where the abuse is mutual and couples with abusive relationships who want the abuse to end but the relationship to be sustained strategies for engaging perpetrators in interventions and for promoting behaviour change evidence informed interventions programmes and policies for working with perpetrators where robust evidence is lacking and more research needs to be undertaken Domestic violence is a significant problem for those individuals and families whose life is affected by this issue the social health and criminal justice agencies that respond to it and wider society which must bear the costs and its devastating effects This volume is an important reference for all those researching and working with the victims survivors and perpetrators of domestic violence including academics and students from fields such as social work sociology criminology psychology and social policy

Rethinking Domestic Violence

Donald G. Dutton, 2011-01-01 Rethinking Domestic Violence is the third in a series of books by Donald Dutton critically reviewing research in the area of intimate partner violence IPV The research crosses disciplinary lines including social and clinical psychology sociology psychiatry affective neuropsychology criminology and criminal justice research Since the area of IPV is so heavily politicized Dutton tries to steer through conflicting claims by assessing the best research methodology As a result he comes to some very new conclusions These conclusions include the finding that IPV is better predicted by psychological rather than social structural factors particularly in cultures where there is relative gender equality Dutton argues that personality disorders in either gender account for better data on IPV His findings also contradict earlier views among researchers and policy makers that IPV is essentially perpetrated by males in all societies Numerous studies are reviewed in arriving at these conclusions many of which employ new and superior methodologies than were available previously After twenty years of viewing IPV as generated by gender and focusing on a punitive law and order approach Dutton argues that this approach must be more varied and flexible Treatment providers criminal justice system personnel lawyers and researchers have indicated the need for a new view of the problem one less invested in gender politics and more open to collaborative views and interdisciplinary insights Dutton's rethinking of the fundamentals of IPV is essential reading for psychologists policy makers and those dealing with the sociology of social science the relationship of psychology to law and explanations of adverse behaviour

Ambiguous Aggression in German Realism and Beyond Barbara N.

Nagel,2019-10-17 Our main words defining emotional states suggest that we have clarity about them expressions like love hatred anxiety or sorrow seem clear enough The reality however tends to be more complicated We are often faced with gestures and utterances that are difficult to interpret we thus find ourselves wondering about the affective force of what has just been said Was that an insult Flirtation Aggression Ambiguous Aggression in German Realism and Beyond looks at three interlocking forms of social violence flirtation passive aggression and domestic violence In order to understand their circulation it traces their literary historical genealogy in German realism and modernism in scenes from Annette von Droste H Lshoff Adalbert Stifter Theodor Storm Theodor Fontane Robert Walser and Franz Kafka covering a historical period from the middle of the 19th century to the early decades of the 20th century Reading realist and modernist literature through 21st century affect theory and vice versa the analyses collected in this book show the deep literary history of our current cultural predicaments and predilections Research Into Violent Behavior United States. Life Happens To Us Ashta-deb,2018-01-26 In this heartbreaking extremely personal memoir of a life touched by profound tragedy author Ashta deb invites readers into her world in the hopes that they might benefit from the discovered remedies that at last elevated her above it Here is a soul who had suffered abuse at the hands of both parents abandonment by her mother and the tragic death of her thirteen year old sister by the time she was just nine years old As she struggles to emerge from this devastation over the next long stretch of her life her past is relentless in its haunting It takes many years before doctors diagnose her with PTSD and many more for her to find the right combination of Western medicine and Eastern wisdom to heal her Her medication with cannabis experimentation with Ayahuasca in Peru and finally a breakthrough healing with psilocybin offers a diverse look at mental healing In the background of it all is her dedicated cultivation of yogic and psychic abilities At last Life Happens to Us endorses the importance of embracing unresolved childhood experiences It is a must read for anyone who wishes to understand their true potential as a human being Honour Based Crimes and the Law

Mukaddes Gorar,2021-05-10 Honour based violence and abuse manifests itself in different forms and this book offers a comprehensive understanding of this phenomenon This book argues that the limits of honour crimes must be defined more widely so that they include conducts and behaviours that originate from the patriarchal notion of honour such as honour based oppression and breast ironing The book provides a critical analysis and synthesis of the law in England and Wales and in the international human rights sphere The relevant domestic legislation and cases are examined to reflect on whether adequate protection is provided for the victims and potential victims of honour based violence and abuse Since honour based violence is a violation of human rights the relevant international human rights law is examined to illustrate the perception of such crimes in the international arena The effectiveness of any remedy for victims of honour based violence and abuse depends on its capability to change deep rooted behaviours in communities with honour based patriarchal values This book argues that the law does not provide the effective impact required in part due to patriarchal structures and that more efforts should be dedicated to changes in education. It is held that there is a need for an educational programme that is especially designed to tackle violence and promote gender equality. The book will be essential reading for academics, researchers and policy makers working in the areas of Human Rights Law, Criminal Law and Gender Studies.

Criminal Careers Witold Klaus, Irena Rzeplińska, Dagmara Woźniakowska-Fajst, 2022-12-30. Criminal Careers follows the lives and criminal behaviours of 2 397 people in Poland who as juveniles committed a crime and received a form of punishment from the juvenile court between the late 1980s and the year 2000. Through combining quantitative and qualitative research, their criminal careers, the differences between men and women, risk factors and reasons for nondesistance are analysed. Uniquely, the authors have used an extensive database of former juveniles in which as many as 40% were women. This book therefore makes a comparison between women and men in terms of their future life paths. Additionally, the researched group consisted of teenagers from two different periods: the 1980s, the transition generation, and 2000, the millennial generation, which in the context of Central and Eastern European countries means that they entered adulthood in completely different realities. These differences are therefore also explored in depth within the book. By focusing on Poland, the book provides a different perspective to criminal career research, which is generally limited to a few countries in Western Europe and the United States. The book will be of great interest to academics and students who are developing their own research in the fields of criminal careers, juvenile delinquency and antisocial behaviours by young people. It will also appeal to professionals including juvenile judges, probation officers, staff in correctional facilities and social rehabilitation institutions, social workers and employees of nonprofit organisations that support juveniles, people in crisis and prisoners or ex-prisoners.
