Pat Memorandum 2014 Grade 12:

Building the Federal Schoolhouse Douglas S. Reed, 2014-05-29 Over the past fifty years the federal government's efforts to reform American public education have transformed U S schools from locally run enterprises into complex systems jointly constructed by federal state and local actors The construction of this federal schoolhouse an educational system with common national expectations and practices has fundamentally altered both education politics and the norms governing educational policy at the local level Building the Federal Schoolhouse examines these issues through an in depth fifty year examination of federal educational policies in the community of Alexandria Virginia a wealthy yet socially diverse suburb of Washington D C The epochal social transformations that swept through America in the past half century hit Alexandria with particular force transforming its Jim Crow school system into a new immigrant gateway district within two generations Along the way the school system has struggled to provide quality education for special needs students and has sought to overcome the legacies of tracking and segregated learning while simultaneously retaining upper middle class students Most recently it has grappled with state and federally imposed accountability measures that seek to boost educational outcomes All of these policy initiatives have contended with the existing political regime within Alexandria at times forcing it to a breaking point and at other times reconstructing it All the while the local expectations and governing realities of administrators parents politicians and voters have sharply constrained federal initiatives limiting their scope when in conflict with local commitments and amplifying them when they align Through an extensive use of local archives contemporary accounts school data and interviews Douglas S Reed not only paints an intimate portrait of the conflicts that the federal schoolhouse's creation has wrought in Alexandria but also documents the successes of the federal commitment to greater educational opportunity In so doing he highlights the complexity of the American education state and the centrality of local regimes and local historical context to federal educational reform efforts

Convention Center Follies Heywood T. Sanders,2014-05-08 American cities have experienced a remarkable surge in convention center development over the last two decades with exhibit hall space growing from 40 million square feet in 1990 to 70 million in 2011 an increase of almost 75 percent Proponents of these projects promised new jobs new private development and new tax revenues Yet even as cities from Boston and Orlando to Phoenix and Seattle have invested in more convention center space the return on that investment has proven limited and elusive Why then do cities keep building them Written by one of the nation s foremost urban development experts Convention Center Follies exposes the forces behind convention center development and the revolution in local government finance that has privileged convention centers over alternative public investments Through wide ranging examples from cities across the country as well as in depth case studies of Chicago Atlanta and St Louis Heywood T Sanders examines the genesis of center projects the dealmaking and the circular logic of convention center development Using a robust set of archival resources including internal minutes of business consultants and the personal papers of big city mayors Sanders offers a systematic analysis of the consultant forecasts and promises that have sustained center development and the ways those forecasts have been manipulated and proven false This record reveals that business leaders sought not community wide economic benefit or growth but rather to reshape land values and development opportunities in the downtown core A probing look at a so called economic panacea Convention Center Follies dissects the inner workings of America s convention center boom and provides valuable lessons in urban government local business growth and civic redevelopment Wheel Man R.K.
