United States. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce. Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Elementary, and Secondary Education, 2017. Writing Hope Strategies for Writing Success in Secondary Schools

Nicole Sieben, 2018-01-11. This book provides ways of thinking about the teaching of writing in secondary schools with applications to college writing and shares research-based strategies for immediate use in the classroom. The strengths-based classroom-tested student-centered writing hope strategies shared within the Writing Hope Framework WHF are designed to allow students to work within their own unique writing processes and insert their individual writers' voices and styles authentically. The Writing Hope Framework allows students to choose which strategies and stages of the writing process they wish to engage in for purposeful writing goal attainment; it recognizes unique writing approaches and accounts for these differences in curricular design and implementation. Teachers can assess the writing abilities and self-beliefs of the students in their classes using a variety of strategies provided and then guide students in their pathways selection processes for writing. Given the nature of this research and its application, it is the intention of this book to bring readers through a process of hope that can facilitate life hope and writing hope in the classroom for and with students. Hope is not exclusively for the already hopeful students; it is also and perhaps more critically for those students who do not presently see hope in their lives but who can. Every student is capable of hope if it is facilitated effectively and purposefully. Increasing

The Board on Science Education and the Board on Mathematical Sciences and Analytics of the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine convened the Workshop on Increasing Student Success in Developmental Mathematics on March 18-19, 2019. The Workshop explored how to best support all students in postsecondary mathematics with particular attention to students who are unsuccessful in developmental mathematics and with an eye toward issues of access to promising reforms and equitable learning environments. The two-day workshop was designed to bring together a variety of stakeholders including experts who have developed and/or implemented new initiatives to improve the mathematics education experience for students. The overarching goal of the workshop was to take stock of the mathematics education community's progress in this domain. Participants examined the data on students who are well-served by new reform structures in developmental mathematics and discussed various cohorts of students who are not currently well-served: those who even with access to reforms do not succeed and those who do not have access to a reform due to differential access constraints Throughout the workshop participants also explored promising approaches to bolstering student outcomes in mathematics focusing especially on research and data that demonstrate the success of these approaches deliberated and discussed barriers and opportunities for effectively serving all students and outlined some key directions of inquiry intended to address the prevailing research and data needs in the field This publication summarizes the presentations and discussion of the workshop
