

Strings The strings are made of metal and are wound around a central core. The strings are made of different materials and have different gauges. The strings are made of different materials and have different gauges. The strings are made of different materials and have different gauges.

Machine Heads Six machine heads aligned in a staggered row - achieving a straight string path - important for stability especially when using vibrato. The iconic headstock has varied, but in the early 21st century the classic has returned. See Specific case studies on page 104.

Neck A one piece removable neck - classically with an integrated maple fingerboard - many Strats now have conventional rosewood fingerboards which are not just harder wearing but also have an effect on the sound - many players insist on the original formula. The 6 string model means a 'belly' can take an hour not 3 days (see page 105). The original 21 frets are now often augmented to 22.

Pickguard Though shown here as components - virtually all the electronics can be removed as one piece for simply mounting the pickguard. The majority of Strats have incorporated 100% solid electronics.

Pickups These single but effective single coil pickups revolutionised the sound of the electric guitar and set the stage for Rock 'n' Roll. A pickup update is simple (see page 80).

Pickup Selector One accessible three-way switch for instant changes of tone colour. Now most commonly a five-way switch and sometimes augmented with FSR, SRD, 'Delta tone' and '5L switching'. See Specific case studies starting on page 104.
