McBride, 2017-10-31 When women are told that what is important about us is how we look it becomes increasingly difficult for us to feel comfortable with our appearance and how we feel about our bodies We are told over and over if we just lost weight fit into those old jeans or into a new smaller pair we will be happier and feel better about ourselves The truth is so many women despise their appearance weight and shape that experts who study women s body image now consider this feeling to be normal But it does not have to be that way It is possible for us as women to love ourselves our bodies as we are We need a new story about what it means to be a woman in this world Based on her original research Hillary L McBride shares the true stories of young women and their mothers and provides unique insights into how our relationships with our bodies are shaped by what we see around us and the specific things we can do to have healthier relationships with our appearance and all the other parts of ourselves that make us women In Mothers Daughters and Body Image McBride tells her own story of recovery from an eating disorder and how her struggles led her to dream of a new vision for womanhood from one without body shame negative comparisons or insecurities to one of freedom connection and acceptance In Her Mother's House Wendy Ho, 1999 Unwilling to see Asian American women silenced beneath the noisy discourses of feminists cultural nationalists and Eurocentric historians Wendy Ho turns to specific spoken stories of mothers and daughters Against reductive tendencies of scholarship she places her own conversations with her China born grandmother and her U S born mother and her own readings of other Asian American women writers She finds in the writings of Maxine Hong Kingston Amy Tan and Fae Myenne Ng not only complex mother daughter relationships but many faceted relationships to fathers family community and culture Always resisting the simplistic explanations In Her Mother s House brings Asian American women s experience as mothers and daughters to the forefront of gender and ethnicity American Motherhood, 1908 I Have the Answer Kelly Fordon, 2020-04-07 Short stories that manage to feel both fantastical and disturbingly familiar If you thought the suburbs were boring think again Kelly Fordon s I Have the Answer artfully mixes the fabulist with the workaday and illuminates relationships and characters with crisp elegant prose and dark wit The stories in Fordon s latest collection are disquieting humorous and thought provoking They might catch you off guard but are always infused with deep humanity and tenderness In these thirteen short stories Fordon presents people dealing with the grayness of reality and longing for transcendence Characters within these stories are often as surprised by their own behavior as that of their neighbors In Jungle Life the narrator attempts to clarify and document the stories of his father a war veteran before he descends into dementia In Where's the Baby a woman reflects on her difficult childhood as she grudgingly cares for her more successful yet exasperating sister In In the Dog House a woman visits an estate sale and sifts through the layers of lifetimes past while grappling with her long standing jealousy of a mysterious neighbor In The Shorebirds and The Shaman a woman who has just lost her husband winds up at a kooky weekend retreat role playing her way out of debilitating grief Award winning author Desiree Cooper has called the stories in I Have the Answer pitch perfect Fordon takes us to the precipice where trauma and triumph are equal possibilities The people in these stories are so hauntingly real that long after I put the book down I found myself wondering what had become of them Readers of contemporary fiction and short stories will enjoy mulling over the complicated feelings this collection evokes

Renegotiating Patriarchy Naila Kabeer, 2024-09-26 The idea of the Bangladesh paradox describes the unexpected social progress that Bangladesh has made in recent decades that has been both pro poor and gender equitable This began at a time when the country was characterised by extreme levels of poverty poor quality governance an oppressive patriarchy and rising Islamic orthodoxy This paradox has evoked a great deal of interest within the international development community because Bangladesh had been dubbed an international basket case at the time of its independence in 1971 seemingly trapped in a development impasse Previous attempts to explain this paradox have generally taken a top down approach focusing on the role of leading institutional actors donors government NGOs and the private sector In Renegotiating Patriarchy Gender Agency and the Bangladesh Paradox Naila Kabeer starts with the rationale that policy actions taken at the top are unlikely to materialise into actual changes if they are not acted on by the mass of ordinary women and men But what led these women and men to act And why did they act in ways that modified some of the more oppressive aspects of patriarchy in the country That is what this book sets out to investigate It describes the history of the Bengal delta and the forces that gave rise to the kind of society that Bangladesh was at the time of its independence It considers the policy and politics that characterised post independence Bangladesh and how these contributed to the progress captured in the idea of the Bangladesh paradox But the key argument of the book is that much of this progress reflected the agency exercised by ordinary often very poor women in the course of their everyday lives Their agency helped to translate institutional actions into concrete changes on the ground To explore why and how this happened the book draws on a rich body of ethnographic qualitative and quantitative research on social change in Bangladesh including studies by the author herself The book is therefore about how norms and practices can change in progressive ways despite unpropitious circumstances as a result of the efforts of poor women in Bangladesh to renegotiate what had been described as one of the most non negotiable patriarchies in the world
