Desmarais,Priscilla Claeys,Amy Trauger,2017-09-07 An increasing number of rural and urban based movements are realizing some political traction in their demands for democratization of food systems through food sovereignty Some are pressuring to institutionalize food sovereignty principles and practices through laws policies and programs While the literature on food sovereignty continues to grow in volume and complexity there are a number of key questions that need to be examined more deeply These relate specifically to the processes and consequences of seeking to institutionalize food sovereignty What dimensions of food sovereignty are addressed in public policies and which are left out What are the tensions losses and gains for social movements engaging with sub national and national governments How can local governments be leveraged to build autonomous spaces against state and corporate power The contributors to this book analyze diverse institutional processes related to food sovereignty ranging from community supported agriculture to food policy councils direct democracy initiatives to constitutional amendments the drafting of new food sovereignty laws to public procurement programmes as well as Indigenous and youth perspectives in a variety of contexts including Brazil Ecuador Spain Switzerland UK Canada USA and Africa Together the contributors to this book discuss the political implications of integrating food sovereignty into existing liberal political structures and analyze the emergence of new political spaces and dynamics in response to interactions between state governance systems and social movements voicing the radical demands of food sovereignty

How Do Hurricane Katrina's Winds Blow? Liza Treadwell,2014-03-26 The disproportionate effect of Hurricane Katrina on African Americans was an outcome created by law and societal construct not chance This book takes a hard look at racial stratification in American today and debunks the myth that segregation is a thing of the past An outstanding resource for students of African American history government policy sociology and human rights as well as readers interested in socioeconomics in the United States today this book examines why the divisions between the areas heavily damaged by Hurricane Katrina and those left unscathed largely coincided with the color lines in New Orleans neighborhoods and establishes how African Americans have suffered for 400 years under an oppressive system that has created a permanent underclass of second class citizenship Rather than focusing on the Katrina disaster itself the author presents significant evidence of how government policy and structure as well as societal mores permitted and sanctioned the dehumanization of African Americans purposefully placing them in disaster prone areas particularly those in New Orleans The historical context is framed within the construct of Hurricane Katrina and other hurricane catastrophes in New Orleans demonstrating that Katrina was not an anomaly For readers unfamiliar with the ugly existence of segregation in modern day America this book will likely shock and outrage as it sounds a call to both citizens and government to undertake the challenges we still face as a nation

Making Time on Mars Zara Mirmalek, 2020-04-07 An examination of how the daily work of NASA s Mars Exploration Rovers was organized across three sites on two planets using local Mars time In 2004 mission scientists and engineers working with NASA s Mars Exploration Rovers MER remotely operated two robots at different sites on Mars for ninety consecutive days An unusual feature of this successful mission was that it operated on Mars time the daily work was organized across three sites on two planets according to two Martian time zones In Making Time on Mars Zara Mirmalek shows that this involved more than a resetting of wristwatches the team s struggle to synchronize with Mars time involved technological and communication breakdowns informal workarounds and extra work to support the technology that was intended to support people Her account of how NASA created an entirely new temporality for the MER mission offers insights about the assumptions behind the organizational relationship between clock time and work Mirmalek herself a member of the mission team offers an insider s view of the MER workplace and community She describes the discord among MER s multiple temporalities and examines issues of professional identity that helped shape the experience of working according to Mars time Considering time and work relationships through a multidisciplinary lens Mirmalek shows how contemporary and historical human technology relationships inform assumptions about the unalterability of clock time She argues that the organizational connection between clock time and work although still operational is outdated
