Sanders, 2001-12-17 This book argues that brother sister relationships idealized by the Romantics intensified in nineteenth century English domestic culture and is a neglected key to understanding Victorian gender relations Attracted by the apparent purity of the sibling bond novelists and poets also acknowledged its innate ambivalence and instability through conflicting patterns of sublimated devotion revenge fantasy and corrosive obsession The final chapter shows how the brother sister bond was permanently changed by the experience of the First World War The Cambridge Companion to English Novelists Adrian Poole, 2009-12-10 A survey of the most important British novelists of the past 250 years for students of British fiction An Anthology of London in Literature, 1558-1914 Geoffrey G. Hiller, Peter L. Groves, Alan F. Dilnot, 2019-02-06 This book is an anthology of extracts of literary writing in prose verse and drama about London and its diverse inhabitants taken from the accession of Queen Elizabeth I in 1558 to the outbreak of the Great War in 1914 The 143 extracts divided into four periods 1558 1659 1660 1780 1781 1870 and 1871 1914 range from about 250 words to 2 500 Each of the four periods has an introduction that deals with relevant social geographical and historical developments and each extract is introduced with a contextualizing headnote and furnished with explanatory footnotes In addition the general introduction to the anthology addresses some of the literary questions that arise in writing about London and the book ends with many suggestions for further reading It should appeal not only to the general reader interested in London and its representation but also to students of literature in courses about reading the city Sea Sagas of the North Jules Pretty, 2022-10-25 The book's stories and sagas cover three central themes living with environmental change around the North Sea and the Atlantic story telling through history in these lands reconnecting with nature and our ancient heritages so as to live well and responsibly The Railway and Modernity Matthew Beaumont, Michael J. Freeman, 2007 Most research and writing on railway history has been undertaken in a way that disconnects it from the wider cultural milieu Authors have been very effective at constructing specialist histories of transport but have failed to register the railway's central importance in the representation and understanding of modernity This book brings together contributions from a range of established scholars in a variety of disciplines with the central purpose of exploring the railway less as a transport technology than as a key signifier of capitalist modernity It examines the complex social relations in which the railway became historically embedded identifying it as a central problematic in the cultural experience of modernity It avoids the limitations of both the close sighted empiricism typical of many transport historians and the long sighted generalizations of cultural commentators who view the railway merely as a shorthand for the concept of progress over the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The book draws on a diverse range of materials including literary and historical forms of representation It is also informed by a creative application of various critical theories Idleness, Indolence and Leisure in English Literature M. Fludernik, M. Nandi, 2014-11-11

Idleness Indolence and Leisure in English Literature is the first study to provide transhistorical perspectives and cutting edge critical analyses of debates concerning idleness in English literature The topicality of the subject is emphasized by two pieces of sociological analysis The Professional Ideal in the

Victorian Novel S. Colon, 2007-05-14 This book makes the claim that Victorian novels do not simply reflect professional ideology they also scrutinize its dilemmas contradictions and limitations In this volume innovative readings of canonical texts like Sybil Barchester Towers Romola and Daniel Deronda accompany groundbreaking work on less familiar texts like Tancred and My Lady Ludlow to illuminate the Victorians own struggles with the emerging professional ideology The Victorians engagement with fundamental ideas of professional identity such as autonomy meritocracy and the service ethic reveal professionalism s dual basis in materialist and idealist rationalities Shock, Memory and the Unconscious in Victorian

Fiction Jill L. Matus, 2009-09-10 Jill Matus explores shock in Victorian fiction and psychology with startling results that reconfigure the history of trauma theory Central to Victorian thinking about consciousness and emotion shock is a concept that challenged earlier ideas about the relationship between mind and body Although the new materialist psychology of the mid nineteenth century made possible the very concept of a wound to the psyche the recognition for example that those who escaped physically unscathed from train crashes or other overwhelming experiences might still have been injured in some significant way it was Victorian fiction with its complex explorations of the inner life of the individual and accounts of upheavals in personal identity that most fully articulated the idea of the haunted possessed and traumatized subject This wide ranging book reshapes our understanding of Victorian theories of mind and memory and reveals the relevance of nineteenth century culture to contemporary theories of trauma Fear in the Medical and Literary Imagination,

Medieval to Modern Daniel McCann, Claire McKechnie-Mason, 2018-05-19 This book is about an emotion constantly present in human culture and history fear It is also a book about literature and medicine two areas of human endeavour that engage with fear most acutely The essays in this volume explore fear in various literary and medical manifestations in the Western World from medieval to modern times It is divided into two parts The first part Treating Fear examines fear in medical history and draws from theology medicine philosophy and psychology to offer an account of how fear shifts in Western understanding from the Middle Ages to Modern times The second part Writing Fear explores fear as a rhetorical and literary force offering an account of how it is used and evoked in distinct literary periods and texts This coherent and fascinating collection will appeal to medical historians literary critics cultural theorists medical humanities scholars and historians of the emotions

Language of Gender and Class Patricia Ingham, 2002-09-11 The Language of Gender and Class challenges widely held assumptions about the study of the Victorian novel Lucid multilayered and cogently argued this volume will provoke debate and encourage students and scholars to rethink their views on nineteenth century literature Examining six novels Patricia Ingham demonstrates that none of the writers male or female easily accept stereotypes of gender and class The classic figures of Angel and Whore are reassessed and modified And the result argues Ingham is that the treatment of gender by the late nineteenth century is released from its task of containing neutralising class conflict New accounts of femininity can begin to emerge The novels which Ingham studies are Shirley by Charlotte Brontë North and South by Elizabeth Gaskell Felix Holt by George Eliot Hard Times by Charles Dickens The Unclassed by George Gissing Jude the Obscure by Thomas Hardy

Outlaw Fathers in Victorian and Modern British Literature Helena Gurfinkel, 2014-03-27 Outlaw Fathers in Victorian and Modern British Literature Queering Patriarchy traces the representations of outlaw fathers or queer patriarchs and their relationships with their queer sons in a particular literary tradition mid to late Victorian and twentieth century British fiction and memoir Specifically I look at such representations in Anthony Trollope's Doctor Thorne 1858 and The Prime Minister 1875-76 while also drawing on An Autobiography 1883 and The Duke's Children 1880 Samuel Butler's The Way of All Flesh published in 1901 Henry James's The Lesson of the Master 1888 J R Ackerley's My Father and Myself written in the 1930s and published in 1968 E M Forster's Little Imber 1961 with an occasional detour into The Longest Journey 1907 Howards End 1909 and Maurice published in 1971 and Alan Hollinghurst's The Spell 1998 In the coda I consider the implications of including transgender transnational female to male fathers of color in the ranks of queer patriarchy and discuss two contemporary novels Jackie Kay's Trumpet 1998 Scotland and Patricia Powell's The Pagoda 1998 Jamaica and the United States as well as briefly an episode an episode of the television show The L Word 2008 and the documentary U People 2007 The term queer patriarchy has two components The first one is a non traditional primarily but not exclusively non heterosexual pervasively present and culturally important paternal subjectivity The second one is the bond between such queer paternal figures and their sons biological and non biological This study pays attention primarily to the relationship between psyche language and ideology but it will join a larger conversation about the changing roles of men in general and fathers in particular which is taking place outside of the field of literary studies

Wives and Daughters Elizabeth Gaskell, 2000-12-14 Wives and Daughters Elizabeth Gaskell's last novel is regarded by many as her masterpiece Molly Gibson is the daughter of the doctor in the small provincial town of Hollingford Her widowed father marries a second time to give Molly the woman's presence he feels she lacks but until the arrival of Cynthia her dazzling step sister Molly finds her situation hard to accept Intertwined with the story of the Gibsons is that of Squire Hamley and his two sons as Molly grows up and falls in love she learns to judge people for what they are not what they seem Through Molly's observations the hierarchies social values and social changes of early nineteenth century English life are made vivid in a novel that is timeless in its representation of human relationships This edition the first to be based in the original Cornhill Magazine serialization of 1864 6 draws on a full collation of the manuscript to present the most accurate text so far available ABOUT THE SERIES For over 100 years Oxford World's Classics has made available the widest range of literature from around the globe Each affordable volume reflects Oxford's commitment to scholarship providing the most accurate text plus a wealth of other valuable features including expert introductions by leading authorities helpful notes to clarify the text up to date bibliographies for further study and much more

Victorian Narratives of the Recent Past Helen Kingstone, 2017-03-30 This book explains why narrating the recent past is always challenging and shows how it was particularly fraught in the nineteenth century The legacy of Romantic historicism the professionalization of the historical discipline and even the growth of social history all heightened the stakes This book brings together Victorian histories and novels to show how these parallel genres responded to the challenges of contemporary history writing in divergent ways Many historians shrank from engaging with controversial recent events This study showcases the work of those rare historians who defied convention including the polymath Harriet Martineau English nationalist J R Green and liberal enthusiast Spencer Walpole A striking number of popular Victorian novels are retrospective This book argues that Charlotte Brontë Elizabeth Gaskell and George Eliot's novels of the recent past are long overdue recognition as genuinely historical novels By focusing on provincial communities these novelists reveal undercurrents invisible to national narratives and intervene in debates about women's contribution to history

Mary Barton Elizabeth Gaskell, 2006-03-09 It's the masters as has wrought this woe it's the masters as should pay for it Set in Manchester in the 1840s a period of industrial unrest and extreme deprivation Mary Barton depicts the effects of economic and physical hardship upon the city's working class community Paralleling the novel's treatment of the relationship between masters and men the suffering of the poor and the workmen's angry response is the story of Mary herself a factory worker's daughter who attracts the attentions of the mill owner's son she becomes caught up in the violence of class conflict when a brutal murder forces her to confront her true feelings and allegiances Mary Barton was praised by contemporary critics for its vivid realism its convincing characters and its deep sympathy with the poor and it still has the power to engage and move readers today This edition reproduces the last edition of the novel supervised by Elizabeth Gaskell and includes her husband's two lectures on the Lancashire dialect

Sylvia's Lovers Elizabeth Cleghorn Gaskell, 1999 This is a pre 1923 historical reproduction that was curated for quality Quality assurance was conducted on each of these books in an attempt to remove books with imperfections introduced by the digitization process Though we have made best efforts the books may have occasional errors that do not impede the reading experience We believe this work is culturally important and have elected to bring the book back into print as part of our continuing commitment to the preservation of printed works
