Mobile Computing, Applications, and Services Petros Zerfos, Rebecca Montanari, Thomas Phan, 2010-05-11 This proceedings volume includes the full research papers presented at the First International Conference on Mobile Computing Applications and Services MobiCASE held in San Diego California during October 26-29 2009 It was sponsored by ICST and held in conjunction with the First Workshop on Innovative Mobile User Interactivity WIMUI MobiCASE highlights state of the art academic and industry research work in main topics above the OSI transport layer with an emphasis on complete end-to-end systems and their components Its vision is largely influenced by what we see in the consumer space today high end mobile phones high bandwidth wireless networks novel consumer and enterprise mobile applications scalable software infrastructures and of course an increasingly larger user base that is moving towards an almost a mobile lifestyle This year's program spanned a wide range of research that explored new features algorithms and infrastructure related to mobile platforms We received submissions from many countries around the world with a high number from Europe and Asia in addition to the many from North America Each paper received at least three independent reviews from our Technical Program Committee members during the Spring of 2009 with final results coming out in July As a result of the review process we selected 15 high quality papers and complemented them with six invited submissions from leading researchers reaching the final count of 21 papers in the program Human Factors Issues in Combat Identification Robert P Herz, Dee H Andrews, Mark B Wolf, 2017-09-29 This edited book presents an array of approaches on how human factors theory and research addresses the challenges associated with combat identification. Special emphasis is placed on reducing human error that leads to fratricide which is the unintentional death or injury of friendly personnel by friendly weapons during an enemy engagement. Although fratricide has been a concern since humans first engaged in combat operations it gained prominence during the Persian Gulf War. To reduce fratricide advances in technological approaches to enhance combat identification e.g. Blue Force Tracker should be coupled with the application of human factors principles to reduce human error. The book brings together a diverse group of authors from academic and military researchers to government contractors and commercial developers to provide a single volume with broad appeal. Human Factors Issues in Combat Identification is intended for the larger human factors community within academia, the military and other organizations that work with the military such as government contractors and commercial developers as well as others interested in combat identification issues including military personnel and policy makers. Cult of

Analytics: Driving online marketing strategies using web analytics Steve Jackson, 2009-06-04 If you want to understand and get true value from your online content you need to understand how it is used by your customers. If you work with web analytics and online search optimization this book will provide you with the tools and insight you need to do just that. Even more it will give you an actionable plan to transform the culture of your organization into one that uses web analytics on a daily basis focusing on real changes you can make to your department and processes to transform the way your business works. With examples from dozens of companies ranging from small businesses to consumer sites like Amazon to some of the largest companies in the world including Tesco and Google Cult of Analytics demonstrates just how to apply web analytics to your business. Situational Awareness for Assistive Technologies Mehul Bhatt, Hans Werner Gsger, 2012 The development of smart assistive technology for personal living and public environments is an opportunity that has been recently recognized by research labs across the world. A particular theme that has garnered attention in many countries is the problem of an aging population. The combination of a much larger elderly population and the ever increasing cost of providing full time human care for them means that finding practical assisted living solutions for this group is becoming increasingly important. Computing is the obvious choice to provide an answer to this growing problem but to have a real impact computer based assistive technologies will need to possess the ability to interact with and interpret the actions and situations of those they are designed to assist. The papers in this book explore the diversity of the field of ambient intelligence as well as the wide range of approaches and variety of applications that may prove to be possible. Consideration is given to how space, action time and other contexts can be represented and reasoned about for use in sensory mapping, multi agent interactions, assisted living and even emergency responses. Many techniques are examined, variety represents one of the most important strengths of this area meaning that the weakness of one approach can be offset by the capability of others The book consists of research contributions dealing with the crucial notion of situational awareness within assistive smart systems emerging as an overarching concept An applied computer science character has been retained whilst bringing to the fore research projects where formal knowledge representation and reasoning techniques have been demonstrated to be applicable to areas within the broader field of ambient intelligence and smart environments
