Animal Care and Management at the National Zoo, National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Institute for Laboratory Animal Research, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Committee on the Review of the Smithsonian Institution's National Zoological Park, 2005-11-27 This report follows up on an interim report released in February 2004 that focused on immediate needs in the areas of animal care and management, recordkeeping, and pest control. The report finds that the zoo has made good faith efforts to correct deficiencies noted in the interim report and has made some noticeable improvements in the past year in zoo operations and animal care. However, problems in areas such as staff training, workplace culture, and strategic planning still need to be addressed. Specifically, the report recommends that the zoo immediately develop and implement animal care training programs to ensure that people who are directly responsible for the well-being of its animal

collection are adequately prepared and competent The report commends a zoo initiated strategic planning process as a positive step but recommends it contain a more detailed comprehensive strategy of how it will meet short term goals and that it should link plans to upgrade facilities with those to acquire animals The zoo should also focus on improving communication among keepers veterinarians nutritionists senior managers and curators Global Strategic Planning Marios Katsioloudes, 2012-08-21 First published in 2001 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company From Strategy to Change Daniel James Rowley, Herbert Sherman, 2004-03-29 In From Strategy to Change the last in a series Daniel James Rowley comes full circle in defining his unique vision of the strategic planning process Written with Herbert Sherman From Strategy to Change shows how to take the next step after a strategic plan has been formulated The authors clearly show how to implement a strategic plan that will meet the myriad challenges of today's complex higher education environment and spell success for the academy It is amazing that while sports teams of colleges and universities meticulously plan their contests against their opponents their institutions administrators don't spend nearly enough time or effort in creating and implementing a strategy Institutions of higher education seem to be missing the requisite tools to develop and activate their playbook With this new age of globally available real time information it becomes increasingly more essential to have a map to help go over and around obstacles avoid the ever present pitfalls and effectively aid in selecting the best route Rowley and Sherman provide such tools in this exciting and comprehensive new book I wish that when I was a department chair president of a faculty senate and dean that this superb work was available My function in planning would have been so much easier and more rewarding Barry R Armandi Distinguished Teaching Professor SUNY Old Westbury
