Truth Recovery and Justice After Conflict Marie Breen Smyth, 2007-10-18 Focuses on the conditions which predispose or prevent embarkation on a truth recovery process and the rationale for that process arguing that there is no magic moment of readiness for truth recovery but that the conditions are constructed rather than spontaneously occurring

Constructing Victimhood Cheryl Lawther, 2024-11-18 Constructing Victimhood seeks to go beyond innocence and guilt to expand the criminological victimological and transitional justice image of who we see as victims what we hear as experiences of victimisation and who makes these determinations The book argues that the construction reproduction and politicisation of victimhood is structured not only by notions of innocence and guilt and the existence of complex victims but by larger questions concerning the existence of complex hierarchies of victimhood that supersede simplistic notions of good and bad victims Lawther also considers the exercise of voice the role of silence and the silencing of certain variants of victimhood in gender based crimes for example the politicisation of victims groups and the impact of unresolved legacies of violent conflict The author argues that in the failure to cast the transitional justice gaze more widely it is not only the voices in the cracks that will be overlooked but entire experiences of victimhood and victimisation If transitional justice is to live up to its claims of being victim centred widening its conceptual and practical boundaries to recognise the multiple and overlapping variables that construct and reproduce victimhood is essential Pursuing this line of enquiry Constructing Victimhood aims to change our understanding of victimhood in post conflict and transitional contexts The Order of Victimhood Sarah E. Jankowitz,2018-10-03 This book explores how the construction and contestation of victims in societies emerging from conflict impact processes of peacebuilding It locates its inquiry in Northern Ireland where highly politicized unresolved narratives of violence and a so called hierarchy of victims illuminate inherent paradoxes of victimhood in intergroup conflict The author critiques how mechanisms designed to address the legacy of conflict often reify exclusive victim and perpetrator identities and obscure complex harm Adopting an interdisciplinary lens the book examines how the image of the ideal victim interacts with intergroup processes in a polarizing and intractable victim perpetrator paradigm The analysis of these issues in Northern Ireland suggests that exclusive policies and mechanisms reinforce rather than repair societal divisions and that inclusive complex approaches to victimhood are necessary to build sustainable peace This book will be of particular interest to scholars of peace studies transitional justice and criminology Economic Assistance and Conflict Transformation Sean Byrne,2010-10-18 This book examines the role of economic aid in the management and resolution of protracted ethnic conflicts focusing on the case study of Northern Ireland The book describes the results of a study of the role of economic aid within Northern Ireland through the viewpoints of citizens collected in an opinion poll as well as community group leaders whose projects received funding funding agency civil servants and development officers The study explains the importance of economic and social development in promoting cross community contact as well as within single identity communities and the need for a multitrack intervention approach to transform the conflict in Northern Ireland It makes an important contribution to our understanding of how economic assistance impacts on a divided society with a history of protracted violence and provides important perspectives on the peace through development idea One of the key unanswered questions relating to economic aid and preventing future violence is that of the significance of external economic aid in building peace after violence By examining the respondents political imagery this book expands on existing work on economic aid and peace building in other societies coming out of violence Northern Ireland s changing social economic and political context reflects the fact that economic aid and sustainable economic development is a cornerstone of the peacebuilding process The goal of the book is to provide a foundational knowledge base for students and practitioners about the role of economic aid in building the peace dividend in post accord societies The book will be of great interest to students of conflict resolution peacebuilding Irish politics peace and conflict studies and politics and IR in general Conflict to peace Bernadette Hayes,Ian McAllister,2015-09-01 After three decades of violence Northern Ireland has experienced unprecedented peace This book now available in paperback examines the impact of the 1998 Agreement which halted the violence on those most affected by it the Northern Irish people themselves Using public opinion surveys conducted over a period of half a century this book covers changes in public opinion across all areas of society and politics including elections education community relations and national identity The surveys show that despite peace Protestants and Catholics remain as deeply divided as ever The vast majority marry co religionists attend religious schools and have few friends across the religious divide The results have implications not just for peacemaking in Northern Ireland but for other societies emerging from conflict The main lesson of peacemaking in Northern Ireland is that political reform has to be accompanied by social change across the society as a whole Peace after conflict needs social as well as political change

Assessing the Impact of Transitional Justice Hugo Van der Merwe,Victoria Baxter,Audrey R. Chapman,2009 In Assessing the Impact of Transitional Justice fourteen leading researchers study seventy countries that have suffered from autocratic rule genocide and protracted internal conflict

From Conflict to Peace. Rehabilitation Process in the Phase of Transforming Conflict - The Case of Northern Ireland Yusuf Cinar,2018-07-09 The problem of Northern Ireland is a struggle for sharing power between the Catholics and the Protestants The structural and basic reasons of the problem have played a very important role in the evolution of it towards civil war The most important basic reason underlying it is mutual distrust between parties in Northern Ireland On this regard some necessary steps are to be taken for the stability of the peaceful environment established after the conflict The normalization of the society and the making of the relations between groups transparent constitute the rehabilitation process itself Rehabilitation process ensures the continuation of confidence building in schools helps with the matter of winning future generations and also plays an important role in ensuring confidence building in institutions In sum the subject of this study is addressing the contributions of the rehabilitation as the protection of peace to the social reconciliation process as formed by the societies living in Northern Ireland and its continuation by discussing the rehabilitation process with reference to the example of Northern Ireland in the phase of transforming conflict One of the main research questions of this study is to present the contribution of the rehabilitation process on peace within the context of conflict administration In the first part of this book the stage of rehabilitation in the development process of conflict administration is discussed In the second part of this book the structural reasons of conflict will be approached and Belfast Agreement which can be described as a reconciliation document of parties will be analysed The third part is focused on how the results of the application of rehabilitation activities that are foreseen in the in the process of transforming the problem of Northern Ireland are obtained

Public History in Ireland Leonie Hannan,Olwen Purdue,2024-06-28 Through a collection of essays that reflect the complexity of the island s historical past as it operates today Public History in Ireland delivers a scholarly yet accessible introduction to contemporary topics and debates in Irish public history Despite the reputation that Ireland both north and south has gained as a place of contestation this is the first book length study to tackle its diverse and often difficult public histories Public History in Ireland offers examples drawn not only from museums heritage and collections prime mediators of public historical interpretation but also from the work of artists and academics It considers the silences in Ireland s history telling including those of the recent conflict in Northern Ireland and of the traumatic public discoveries and re evaluations of the island s institutions of social control The book s key message is that history is active making itself felt in ongoing debates about heritage identity nationhood post conflict society and reparative justice It shows that Irish public history is freighted and often fraught with jeopardy but as such it is rich with insight that has relevance far beyond this island s shores This book is useful for students scholars and practitioners working in the fields of public history and the history of Ireland

Leaving the North Johanne Devlin Trew,2016 The first book to survey the history of Northern Ireland migration from partition in 1921 to the present including the personal stories of individuals who emigrated to many destinations abroad some of whom later returned

Building Peace in Northern Ireland Maria Power,Maria Clemence Power,2011-01-01 Since the troubles began in the late 1960s people in Northern Ireland have been working together to bring about a peaceful end to the conflict Building Peace in Northern Ireland examines the different forms of peace and reconciliation work that have taken place Maria Power has brought together an international group of scholars to examine initiatives such as integrated education faith based peace building cross border cooperation and women s activism as well as the impact that government policy and European funding have had upon the development of peace and reconciliation organizations

The European Convention on Human Rights and the Conflict in Northern Ireland Brice Dickson,2012-03-15 This book charts the role played by the European Convention on Human Rights during the conflict in Northern Ireland from 1968 to the present day It offers a systematic case study of the Convention s capacity to protect human rights in a society wracked by terrorism and political conflict

Heritage after Conflict Elizabeth Crooke,Thomas Maguire,2018-07-18 The year 2018 marks the twentieth anniversary of the signing of the Belfast Agreement that initiated an uneasy peace in Northern Ireland after the forty years of the Troubles The last twenty years however has still not been sufficient time to satisfactorily resolve the issue of how to deal with the events of the conflict and the dissonant heritages that both gave rise to it and were in turn fuelled by it With contributions from across the UK and Europe Heritage after Conflict brings together a range of expertise to examine the work to which heritage is currently being put within Northern Ireland Questions about the contemporary application of remembering infiltrate every aspect of heritage studies including built heritages urban regeneration and planning tourism museum provision and intangible cultural heritages These represent challenges for heritage professionals who must carefully consider how they might curate and conserve dissonant heritages without exacerbating political tensions that might spark violence Through a lens of critical heritage studies contributors to this book locate their work within the wider contexts of post conflict societies divided cities and dissonant heritages Heritage after Conflict should be essential reading for academics researchers and postgraduate students engaged in the study of the social sciences history peace studies economics cultural geography museum heritage and cultural policy and the creative arts It should also be of great interest to heritage professionals

Peace Processes John D. Brewer, 2013-04-25 Peace processes are mostly very fragile This engagingly written book takes a bold new approach to the topic by beginning from the premise that sociology can identify those factors that help to stabilize them The book draws a distinction between the political and social dimensions of peace processes arguing that each is dependent on the other Consideration of the social peace process neglected in conventional treatments of the subject is made central to this volume While complementing current approaches that emphasize institutional reform in politics law and economics it pays due attention to sociological factors such as gender civil society religion the deconstruction of violent masculinities restorative justice emotions hope forgiveness truth recovery social memory and public victimhood These important themes are fully illustrated with examples and in depth case studies from across the globe The book locates itself within the growing debate about the positive impact of global civil society on peace and identifies the new forms of peace work engendered by globalization It will be essential reading for students and scholars of peace studies in politics international relations and sociology departments

Cinema and Northern Ireland John Hill, 2019-07-25 Traces the history of film production in Northern Ireland from the beginnings of a local film industry in the 1920s and 1930s when the first Northern Irish quota quickies were made through the propaganda films of the 1940s and 1950s and on to the cinema of the Troubles

Remembering the Troubles Jim Smyth, 2017-03-30 The historian A T Q Stewart once remarked that in Ireland all history is applied history that is the study of the past prosecutes political conflict by other means Indeed nearly twenty years after the 1998 Belfast Agreement dealing with the past remains near the top of the political agenda in Northern Ireland The essays in this volume by leading experts in the fields of Irish and British history politics and international studies explore the ways in which competing social or collective memories of the Northern Ireland Troubles continue to shape the post conflict political landscape The contributors to this volume embrace a diversity of perspectives the Provisional Republican version of events as well as that of its Official Republican rival Loyalist understandings of the recent past as well as the British Army's authorized for the record account the importance of commemoration and memorialization to Irish Republican culture and the individual memory of one of the noncombatants swept up in the conflict Tightly specific sharply focused and rich in local detail these essays make a significant contribution to the burgeoning literature of history and memory The book will interest students and scholars of Irish studies contemporary British history memory studies conflict resolution and political science Contributors Jim Smyth Ian McBride Ruan O'Donnell Aaron Edwards James W McAuley Margaret O Callaghan John Mulqueen and Cathal Goan

Painting History Tony Crowley, 2025-09-16 Painting History The Murals of Northern Ireland

1908 2024 is the first book length study of the oldest and most enduring tradition of political wall art Tony Crowley shows how muralism became an important medium for the unionist and loyalist community in its political domination of public space before and after Partition The text also demonstrates that nationalists and republicans painted few murals before the start of the 1981 Hunger Strike during which they painted wall art across republican areas of Northern Ireland as a way of publicizing their cause In the context of a divided society by the mid 1980s murals had become an established genre for the expression of political demands and aspirations In Painting History Tony Crowley provides a detailed analysis of the complex tradition of muralism in the context of the history that produced it with particular attention given to the cultural politics of this remarkable form The book also raises and discusses a series of theoretical questions about murals and muralism that transcend Northern Ireland issues of propriety and legality form and content authority and censorship The work ends with a consideration of the future of the murals in a still polarized but changing region

The Politics of Memoir and the Northern Ireland Conflict Stephen Hopkins, 2013 This book examines memoir writing by many of the key political actors in the Northern Irish Troubles 1969-1998 and argues that memoir has been a neglected dimension of the study of the legacies of the violent conflict It investigates these sources in the context of ongoing disputes over how to interpret Northern Ireland's recent past A careful reading of these memoirs can provide insights into the lived experience and retrospective judgments of some of the main protagonists of the conflict The period of relative peace rests upon an uneasy calm in Northern Ireland Many people continue to inhabit contested ideological territories and in their strategies for shaping the narrative telling of the conflict key individuals within the Protestant Unionist and Catholic Irish Nationalist communities can appear locked into exclusive and self justifying discourses In such circumstances while some memoirists have been genuinely self critical many others have utilised a post conflict language of societal
