

A DEMAT ACCOUNT IS THE EQUIVALENT OF A BANK ACCOUNT, WHICH HOLDS YOUR MONEY.

A demat account similarly holds your securities. Shares and stocks are transferred electronically to your account. As an individual, you can't open your account directly with depositories like NSDL and CSDL. Instead, you register with a Depository Participant (DP), who in turn registers your demat account with the depository. A DP is usually a stock brokerage or bank, that has been granted the license to open demat accounts on behalf of its customers or investors.
