On Reflection On Reflection:

On Reflection Hilary Kornblith, 2012-09-27 Hilary Kornblith presents a new account of reflection and its importance for knowledge reasoning freedom and normativity Philosophers have frequently extolled the value of reflective self examination and a wide range of philosophers who differ on many other things have argued that reflection can help to solve a number of significant philosophical problems The importance of reflecting on one's beliefs and desires has been viewed as the key to solving problems about justification and knowledge about reasoning about the nature of freedom and about the source of normativity In each case a problem is identified which reflective self examination is thought to address Kornblith argues that reflection cannot solve any of these problems There is a common structure to these issues and the problems which reflection is thought to resolve are ones which could not possibly be solved by reflecting on one's beliefs and desires More than this he suggests that the attempt to solve these problems by appealing to reflection saddles us with a mystical view of the powers of reflective self examination Recognition of this fact motivates a search for a demystified view of the nature of reflection To this end Kornblith offers a detailed examination of views about knowledge reasoning freedom and normativity in order to better understand the motivations for extolling self reflective examination He explores both the logic of these views and the psychological commitments they involve In the final chapter he offers a more realistic view of reflection which draws on dual process approaches to cognition

Military Explosives ,1989 The Design Studio Donald A. Schön,1985 Software Composition Thomas Gschwind,Uwe Assmann,Oscar Nierstrasz,2005-09-05 Component based software development is the next step after object oriented programming that promises to reduce complexity and improve reusability. These advantages have also been identified by the industry and consequently over the past years a large number of component based techniques and processes have been adopted in many of these organizations. A visible result of this is the number of component models that have been developed and standardized. These models define how individual software components interact with each other and simplify the design process of software systems by allowing developers to choose from previously existing components. The development of component models is a first step in the right direction but there are many challenges that cannot be solved by the development of a new component model alone. Such challenges are the adaptation of components and their development and verification. Software Composition is the premiere workshop to advance the research in component based software engineering and its related fields. SC 2005 was the fourth workshop in this series. As in previous years SC 2005 was organized as an event co-located with the ETAPS conference. This year's program consisted of a keynote on the revival of dynamic languages given by Prof. Oscar Nierstrasz and 13 technical paper presentations (9 full and 4 short papers). The technical papers were carefully selected from a total of 41 submitted papers. Each paper was thoroughly peer reviewed by at least three members of the program committee and consensus on acceptance was achieved by means of an electronic PC discussion. This LNCS volume contains the revised versions of the papers presented at SC 2005.

Developing Faithful Ministers Tim Ling, 2013-01-25. Developing Faithful Ministers aims to support the work of all those involved in supervision and training relationships within the Church. The Church recognising its call to serve God and the nation seeks to equip and develop its ministers to face the challenge of ministry in a society at the threshold of Christendom that is in a mission context. It is a context where both the general public and the institutional church have significant expectations of those in ministry. Indeed there is now an expectation of demonstrable capability prior to being licensed to any form of permanent tenure. The demand for more professional demonstrably capable mission able and collaborative licensed ministers places particular weight on the efficacy of the initial training relationship. Developing Faithful Ministers seeks to support those who find themselves in these relationships by offering both models of good practice and sustained theological reflection on what these drivers mean for developing ministry.
