3. List any special features of your school or classroom setting (e.g., charter, co-teaching, themed magnet, classroom aide, bilingual, team taught with a special education teacher) that will affect your teaching in this learning segment.

[This elementary school is a kindergarten to fourth grade large city school with 318 total student enrollment. This school is on a Navy housing base and has a 78.6% minority enrollment. The elementary school is extremely diverse and has a racial subgroup division of 21.4% White, 42.1% Hispanic/ Latino, 16.0% Black or African American, 14.2% two or more races, 5.0% Asian, 0.9% Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander, and 0.3% American Indian. The English language is the primary spoken language among these students. Out of the 318 students enrolled, 50% of them are economically disadvantaged students. This school is able to provide support through their special education programs, classroom aides, and recourse teachers. There is a special education aide that comes into the classroom to help assist 4 IEP students during mathematics.]

4. Describe any district, school, or cooperating teacher requirements or expectations that might affect your planning or delivery of instruction, such as required curricula, pacing plan, use of specific instructional strategies, or standardized tests.

[This school follows the California Standard Curriculum and Common Core Standards. I am expected to teach the same material and follow these standards as the other second grade teachers at the same time they teach it. Within the second week of March, I plan to start teaching my 3 mathematics lessons. During this time I must teach the same material as the other second grade teachers and maintain the same pacing structure that they are using. I am able to adjust the material in order to make it more personalized. I am expected to follow the lesson structure of their set mathematics structure, which is a 15 minute mini lesson followed by a 40 minute strategy practice.]
