Reporting from the Wars 1850 - 2015 Barry Turner,Daniel Barredo Ibáñez,Steven James Grattan,2019-07-05 From the foundations of the world s first great empires to the empires of today war has preoccupied human civilisation for as many as 4000 years It has fascinated horrified thrilled confused inspired and disgusted mankind since records began Provoking such a huge range of emotions and reactions and fulfilling all the elements of newsworthiness it is hardly surprising that war makes good news Modern technological advancements such as the camera and television brought the brutality of war into the homes and daily lives of the public No longer a far away and out of sight affair the public's ability to see what was happening on the frontline changed not only how wars were fought but why they were fought. Even when a war is considered popular, the involvement of the press and the weight of public opinion has led to criticisms that have transformed modern warfare almost in equal measure to the changes brought about by weapon technology. War reporting seeks to look beyond the official story to understand the very nature of conflict whilst acknowledging that it is no longer simply good versus evil. This edited volume presents a unique insight into the work of the war correspondent and battlefield photographer from the earliest days of modern war reporting to the present. It reveals how influenced by the changing face of modern warfare the work of the war correspondent has been significantly altered in style, method and practice. By combining historical analysis with experiences of modern day war reporting, this book provides an important contribution to the understanding of this complicated profession which will be of interest to journalists, academics and students alike.
