Young Criminal Lives: Life Courses and Life Chances from 1850 Barry Godfrey, Pamela Cox, Heather Shore, Zoe Alker, 2017-10-26 Young Criminal Lives is the first cradle to grave study of the experiences of some of the thousands of delinquent difficult and destitute children passing through the early English juvenile reformatory system The book breaks new ground in crime research speaking to pressing present day concerns around child poverty and youth justice and resonating with a powerful public fascination for family history Using innovative digital methods to unlock the Victorian life course the authors have reconstructed the lives families and neighbourhoods of 500 children living within or at the margins of the early English juvenile reformatory system Four hundred of them were sent to reformatory and industrial schools in the north west of England from courts around the UK over a fifty year period from the 1860s onwards Young Criminal Lives is based on one of the most comprehensive sets of official and personal data ever assembled for a historical study of this kind For the first time these children can be followed on their journey in and out of reform and then through their adulthood and old age The book centres on institutions celebrated in this period for their pioneering new approaches to child welfare and others that were investigated for cruelty and scandal Both were typical of the new kind of state certified provision offered from the 1850s on to children who had committed criminal acts or who were considered vulnerable to predation poverty and the inheritance of criminal dispositions The notion that interventions can and must be evaluated in order to determine what works now dominates public policy But how did Victorian and Edwardian policy makers and practitioners deal with this question By what criteria and on the basis of what kinds of evidence did they judge their own successes and failures Young Criminal Lives ends with a critical review of the historical rise of evidence based policy making within criminal justice It will appeal to scholars and students of crime and penal policy criminologists sociologists and social policy researchers and practitioners in youth justice and child protection

Economic Growth in Europe Since 1945 N. F. R. Crafts, Gianni Toniolo, 1996-04-18 This compelling volume re examines the topic of economic growth in Europe after the Second World War The contributors approach the subject armed not only with new theoretical ideas but also with the experience of the 1980s on which to draw The analysis is based on both applied economics and on economic history Thus while the volume is greatly informed by insights from growth theory emphasis is given to the presentation of chronological and institutional detail The case study approach and the adoption of a longer run perspective than is normal for economists allow new insights to be obtained As well as including chapters that consider the experience of individual European countries the book explores general European institutional arrangements and historical circumstances The result is a genuinely comparative picture of post war growth with insights that do not emerge from standard cross section regressions based on the post 1960 period
