Running Science John Brewer, 2018-02-14 Running is a deceptively simple sport At its most basic you need only shoes and comfortable clothes you don't mind getting sweaty Yet each time you lace up all your body's moving parts must work together to achieve a gait that will keep you injury free Many other factors also affect your performance from the weather and the surface you run on to your shoes your diet and even your mental and emotional state Science plays an important role in most if not all of these factors As a sports scientist and Running Fitness columnist John Brewer has reviewed hundreds of scientific studies and he offers runners the benefit of their findings in Running Science Each chapter explores a different aspect of the sport through a series of questions Many of the questions address practical matters Do you really need to stretch Which running shoes best suit your form and foot strike Does carbo loading lore stand up to scientific scrutiny could a big bowl of spaghetti be the difference between a PR and a DNF Other questions enhance appreciation for the incredible feats of the sport s great athletes What would it take to run a two hour marathon Perfect weather a straight flat course competition and a lot of luck The answer to each question is presented in a straightforward accessible manner with accompanying infographics Whether you re a beginner or a seasoned runner with many miles and medals behind you Running Science is a must have for anyone interested in the fascinating science behind the sport
