WPA, Writing Program Administration, 1994 Practical Design Patterns for Teaching and Learning with Technology Yishay Mor, Harvey Mellor, Steven Warburton, Niall Winters, 2014-05-08 These are challenging times in which to be an educator The constant flow of innovation offers new opportunities to support learners in an environment of ever shifting demands Educators work as they have always done making the most of the resources at hand and dealing with constraints to provide experiences which foster growth This was John Dewey s ideal of education 80 years ago and it is still relevant today This view sees education as a practice that achieves its goals through creative processes involving both craft and design Craft is visible in the resources that educators produce and in their interactions with learners Design though is tacit and educators are often unaware of their own design practices The rapid pace of change is shifting the balance from craft to design requiring that educators design work become visible shareable and malleable The participatory patterns workshop is a method for doing this through engaging practitioners in collaborative reflection leading to the production of structured representations of design knowledge The editors have led many such workshops and this book is a record of that endeavour and its outcomes in the form of practical design narratives patterns and scenarios that can be used to address challenges in teaching and learning with technology Patterns for College Writing Laurie G. if there were an intuitive set of general writing skills usable across academic and work world settings In College Writing and Beyond A New Framework for University Writing Instruction Anne Beaufort reports on a longitudinal study comparing one student's experience in FYC in history in engineering and in his post college writing Her data illuminate the struggle of college students to transfer what they learn about general writing from one context to another Her findings suggest ultimately not that we must abolish FYC but that we must go beyond even genre theory in reconceiving it Accordingly Beaufort would argue that the FYC course should abandon its hope to teach a sort of general academic discourse and instead should systematically teach strategies of responding to contextual elements that impinge on the writing situation Her data urge attention to issues of learning transfer and to developmentally sound linkages in writing instruction within and across disciplines Beaufort advocates special attention to discourse community theory for its power to help students perceive and understand the context of writing
