Foord, 1915 Journal of the Waterloo Campaign: A Military History Various Authors, 2020-09-28 The return of Napoleon from Elba though a surprise to many was far from being so to those who well aware of his restless disposition his insatiable ambition and the enthusiastic attachment of the French soldiery to his person and fortunes had scarcely expected that he would have remained so long as he actually did without some new attempt at disturbing the general peace The steps taken on this occasion by the different European Powers their preparations for a renewal of the bloody scenes so lately ended are out of my province. They belong to the historian and not to the simple journalist whose affair it is to confine himself strictly to those transactions in which he was himself a participator or at most to glance at those more general subjects merely to give connection to his narrative and make it better understood At the time the news of this extraordinary event arrived the troop of horse artillery which I commanded was stationed at Colchester and the reductions necessary to put us on a peace establishment had already commenced when the order arrived for our being immediately equipped again for foreign service To do this effectually another troop then in the same barracks was broken up and we got the picked horses of both thus making it the finest troop in the service and such diligence was used that although our equipment fell little short of a complete reorganisation Major Sir A Fraser commanding the horse artillery in Colchester was enabled to report on the third day that the troop was ready to march at a moment's warning Meantime the town of Colchester situated as it is on the great road from Harwich to London presented a scene of bustle and anxiety seldom equalled couriers passing to and fro incessantly and numerous travellers foreign and English arriving day and night from the Continent many travelling in breathless haste as if fearful even here of Napoleon's emissaries The reports spread by these fugitives were various and contradictory as might be expected According to some Louis XVIII had been arrested in Paris according to others he had sought refuge in the Pays Bas and again it was asserted that his Majesty was at Ostend awaiting permission to pass the sea and return to his old and secure quarters in England In the midst of all this on the 8th April the post brought our order to march forthwith to Harwich there to embark for Ostend an order received with unfeigned joy by officers and men all eager to plunge into danger and bloodshed all hoping to obtain glory and distinction On the morning of the 9th the troop paraded at half past seven o clock with as much regularity and as quietly as if only going to a field day not a man either absent or intoxicated and every part of the guns and appointments in the most perfect order At eight the hour named in orders we marched off the parade The weather was fine the scenery as we skirted the beautiful banks of the Stour charming and the occasion exhilarating Near Manningtree we halted a short time to feed our horses and then pursuing our route arrived at Harwich about three o clock in the afternoon Here we found the transports the Adventure Philarea and Salus in which last I embarked awaiting us but the tide being unfavourable although we immediately commenced operations we only succeeded in embarking the horses of one division and those of the officers the remainder were therefore put up in the barracks for the night As might be expected the little town of Harwich presented a most animated spectacle Its narrow streets of modest houses with brick trottoirs were crowded with soldiers some all over dust just arrived some who had already been a day or two in the place comparatively at home lounging about in undress others about to embark hurrying along to the beach with baggage and stores sailors marketing or rolling about half seas over country people bringing in vegetables and the like and towns people idling at their windows or in groups at corners of the streets in short the usual picture incident on such occasions Russian Eyewitness Accounts of the Campaign of 1807 Alexander Mikaberidze, 2015-02-20 After his crushing defeat of Prussia in 1806 Napoleon marched into Poland to forestall any Russian attempts to come to the aid of their ally There then followed the bloody battle in a blizzard at Eylau on 8 February 1807 which decimated both armies Operations resumed in the spring and on 14 June Napoleon wrecked the Russian field army at Friedland Napoleon and Emperor Alexander met at Tiltsit and French mastery of north west Europe was confirmed This is the first book to bring together dozens of Russian letters memoirs and diaries with authors ranging from the commander in chief Benningsen to NCOs We see the brutal conditions of the winter campaign at first hand and gain fresh insight into the infamous Treaty of Tiltsit and the diplomatic manoeuvring that followed it
