Play Anything Ian Bogost, 2016-09-13 How filling life with play whether soccer or lawn mowing counting sheep or tossing Angry Birds forges a new path for creativity and joy in our impatient age Life is boring filled with meetings and traffic errands and emails Nothing we'd ever call fun But what if we've gotten fun wrong In Play Anything visionary game designer and philosopher Ian Bogost shows how we can overcome our daily anxiety transforming the boring ordinary world around us into one of endless playful possibilities The key to this playful mindset lies in discovering the secret truth of fun and games Play Anything reveals that games appeal to us not because they are fun but because they set limitations Soccer wouldn't be soccer if it wasn't composed of two teams of eleven players using only their feet heads and torsos to get a ball into a goal Tetris wouldn't be Tetris without falling pieces in characteristic shapes Such rules seem needless arbitrary and difficult Yet it is the limitations that make games enjoyable just like it's the hard things in life that give it meaning Play is what happens when we accept these limitations narrow our focus and consequently have fun Which is also how to live a good life Manipulating a soccer ball into a goal is no different than treating ordinary circumstances like grocery shopping lawn mowing and making PowerPoints as sources for meaning and joy We can play anything by filling our days with attention and discipline devotion and love for the world as it really is beyond our desires and fears Ranging from Internet culture to moral philosophy ancient poetry to modern consumerism Bogost shows us how today's chaotic world can only be tamed and enjoyed when we first impose boundaries on ourselves

Don't Use Your Words! Jane Juffer, 2019-05-28 How children are taught to control their feelings and how they resist this emotional management through cultural production Today even young kids talk to each other across social media by referencing memes songs and movements constructing a common vernacular that resists parental educational and media imperatives to name their feelings and thus control their bodies Over the past two decades children's television programming has provided a therapeutic site for the processing of emotions such as anger but in doing so has enforced normative structures of feeling that Jane Juffer argues weaken the intensity and range of children's affective experiences Don't Use Your Words seeks to challenge those norms highlighting the ways that kids express their feelings through cultural productions including drawings fan art memes YouTube videos dance moves and conversations while gaming online Focusing on kids between ages five and nine Don't Use Your Words situates these productions in specific contexts including immigration policy referenced in drawings by Central American children just released from detention centers and electoral politics as contested in kids artwork expressing their anger at Trump's victory Taking issue with the mainstream tendency to speak on behalf of children

Juffer argues that kids have the agency to answer for themselves what does it feel like to be a kid
