Campbell,2017-10-15 City of Forests City of Farms is a history of recent urban forestry and agriculture policy and programs in New York City Centered on the 2007 initiative PlaNYC this account tracks the development of policies that increased sustainability efforts in the city and dedicated more than 400 million dollars to trees via the MillionTreesNYC campaign Lindsay K Campbell uses PlaNYC to consider how and why nature is constructed in New York City Campbell regards sustainability planning as a process that unfolds through the strategic interplay of actors the deployment of different narrative frames and the mobilizing and manipulation of the physical environment which affects nonhuman animals and plants as well as the city s residents Campbell zeroes in on a core omission in PlaNYC s original conception and funding Despite NYC having a long tradition of community gardening particularly since the fiscal crisis of the 1970s the plan contained no mention of community gardens or urban farms Campbell charts the change of course that resulted from burgeoning public interest in urban agriculture and local food systems She shows how civic groups and elected officials crafted a series of visions and plans for local food systems that informed the 2011 update to PlaNYC City of Forests City of Farms is a valuable tool that allows us to understand and disentangle the political decisions popular narratives and physical practices that shape city greening in New York City and elsewhere Seeing Trees Sonja Dümpelmann,2019-01-08 A fascinating and beautifully illustrated volume that explains what street trees tell us about humanity's changing relationship with nature and the city. Today cities around the globe are planting street trees to mitigate the effects of climate change. However, as landscape historian Sonja D. D. mpelmann explains, this is not a new phenomenon. In her eye-opening work, D. mpelmann shows how New York City and Berlin began systematically planting trees to improve the urban climate during the nineteenth century, presenting the history of the practice within its larger social, cultural, and political contexts. A unique integration of empirical research and theory, D. mpelmann's richly illustrated work uncovers this important, untold story. Street trees, variously regarded as sanitizers, nuisances, upholders of virtue, economic engines, and more, reflect the changing relationship between humans and nonhuman nature in urban environments. Offering valuable insights and frameworks, this authoritative volume will be an important resource for years to come.

From the Ground Up Alison Sant, 2022-01-11 For decades, American cities have experimented with ways to remake themselves in response to climate change. These efforts, often driven by grassroots activism, offer valuable lessons for transforming the places we live in. From the Ground Up: Local Efforts to Create Resilient Cities design expert Alison Sant focuses on the unique ways in which US cities are working to mitigate and adapt to climate change while creating equitable and livable communities. She shows how, from the ground up, we are raising the bar to make cities places in which we don't just survive but where all people have the opportunity to thrive. The efforts discussed in the book demonstrate how urban experimentation and community-based development are informing long-term solutions. Sant shows how US cities are reclaiming their streets from cars, restoring watersheds, growing forests, and adapting shorelines to improve people's lives while addressing our changing climate. The best examples of this work bring together the energy of community activists, the organization of advocacy groups, the power of city government, and the reach of federal environmental policy. Sant presents 12 case studies drawn from research and over 90 interviews with people who are working in these communities to make a difference. For example, advocacy groups in Washington DC are expanding the urban tree canopy and offering job training in the growing sector of urban forestry. In New York, transit agencies are working to make streets safer for cyclists and pedestrians while shortening commutes. In San Francisco, community activists are creating shoreline parks while addressing historic environmental injustice. From the Ground Up is a call to action. When we make the places we live more climate resilient, we need to acknowledge and address the history of social and racial injustice. Advocates, non-profit organizations, community based groups and government officials will find examples of how to build alliances to support and embolden this vision together Together we can build cities that will be resilient to the challenges ahead Reciprocal Landscapes Jane Hutton, 2019-09-06 How are the far away invisible landscapes where materials come from related to the highly visible urban landscapes where those same materials are installed Reciprocal Landscapes Stories of Material Movements traces five everyday landscape construction materials fertilizer stone steel trees and wood from seminal public landscapes in New York City back to where they came from Drawing from archival documents photographs and field trips the author brings these two separate landscapes the material s source and the urban site where the material ended up together exploring themes of unequal ecological exchange labor and material flows Each chapter follows a single material s movement guano from Peru that landed in Central Park in the 1860s granite from Maine that paved Broadway in the 1890s structural steel from Pittsburgh that restructured Riverside Park in the 1930s London plane street trees grown on Rikers Island by incarcerated workers that were planted on Seventh Avenue north of Central Park in the 1950s and the popular tropical hardwood ipe from northern Brazil installed in the High Line in the 2000s Reciprocal Landscapes Stories of Material Movements considers the social political and ecological entanglements of material practice challenging readers to think of materials not as inert products but as continuous with land and the people that shape them and to reimagine forms of construction in solidarity with people other species and landscapes elsewhere
