Anew Katja Garloff, 2022-12-06 In Making German Jewish Literature Anew Katja Garloff traces the emergence of a new Jewish literature in Germany and Austria from 1990 to the present The rise of new generations of authors who identify as both German and Jewish and who often sustain additional affiliations with places such as France Russia or Israel affords a unique opportunity to analyze the foundational moments of diasporic literature Making German Jewish Literature Anew is structured around a series of founding gestures performing authorship remaking memory and claiming places Garloff contends that these founding gestures are literary strategies that reestablish the very possibility of a German Jewish literature several decades after the Holocaust Making German Jewish Literature Anew offers fresh interpretations of second generation authors such as Maxim Biller Doron Rabinovici and Barbara Honigmann as well as of third generation authors many of whom come from Eastern European and or mixed religion backgrounds These more recent writers include Benjamin Stein Lena Gorelik and Katja Petrowskaja Throughout the book Garloff asks what exactly marks a given text as Jewish the author s identity intended audience thematic concerns or stylistic choices and reflects on existing definitions of Jewish literature

Stepping Into Zion Janice W. Fernheimer, 2014-10-15 Considers the question Who is a Jew a critical rhetorical issue with far reaching consequences for Jews and non Jews alike Hatzaad Harishon The First Step was a New York based multiracial Jewish organization that worked to increase recognition and legitimacy for Black Jews in the sixties and seventies In Stepping into Zion Janice W Fernheimer examines the history and archives of Hatzaad Harishon to illuminate the shifting definitions and borders of Jewish identity which have critical relevance to Jews of all traditions as well as to non Jews Fernheimer focuses on a period when Jewish identity was in flux and deeply influenced by the Civil Rights and Black Power movements In 1964 white and Black Jews formed Hatzaad Harishon to foster interaction and unity between Black and white Jewish communities They raised the question of who or what constitutes Jewishness or Jewish identity and in searching for an answer succeeded both historically and rhetorically in gaining increased recognition for Black Jews Fernheimer traces how despite deep disagreement over definitions members of Hatzaad Harishon were able to create common ground in a process she terms interruptive invention an incremental model for rhetorical success that allows different groups to begin and continue important but difficult discussions when they share little common ground or make unequal claims to institutional and discursive power or when the nature of common ground is precisely what is at stake Consequently they provide a practical way out of the seemingly incommensurable stalemate incompatible worldviews present Through insightful interpretations of Hatzaad Harishon s archival materials Fernheimer chronicles the group s successes and failures within the larger rhetorical history of conflicts that emerge when cultural identities shift or expand

Reconfiguring the Land of Israel Constanza Cordoni, 2024-03-01 This book is about ways in which the land of Israel the homeland of the most paradigmatic of all diasporas was envisioned in late antiquity and the early Middle Ages in the literature of the sages It is about the Land according to the redefined Judaism that emerged in the centuries following the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple in 70 CE This Judaism replaced the temple cult with Torah study a study that pertained in part to that very temple cult that became a portable homeland and that reconfigured the Land

Postcolonial Memoir in the Middle East Norbert Bugeja, 2012 This book reconsiders the notion of liminality in postcolonial critical discourse today By visiting Mashriqi writers of memoir Bugeja offers a unique intervention in the understanding of in between and threshold states in present day postcolonialist thought His analysis situates liminal space as a fraught form of consciousness that mediates between conditions of historical contingency and the memorializing present Within the present Mashriqi memoir form liminal spaces may be read as articulations of representational spaces narrative spaces that based as they are within the histories of local communities are nonetheless redolent with memorial and imaginary elements Liminal consciousness today Bugeja argues is a direct consequence of the impact of volatile present day memories on the re conception of the open wounds of history Incisive readings of life writings by Mourid Barghouti Amin Maalouf Orhan Pamuk Amos Oz and Wadad Makdisi Cortas demonstrate the double edged representational chasm that opens up when present acts of memorializing are brought to bear upon the elusive histories of the early twentieth century Mashriq Sifting through the wide ranging theoretical literature on liminality and challenging received views of the concept this book proposes a nuanced materialist and original rethinking of the liminal as a more vigilant outlook onto the political literary and historical predicaments of the contemporary Middle East

Writing Jewish Ruth Gilbert, 2013-12-04 British Jewish writers are increasingly addressing challenging questions about what it means to be both British and Jewish in the twenty first century Writing Jewish provides a lively and accessible introduction to the key issues in contemporary British Jewish fiction memoirs and journalism and explores how Jewishness exists alongside a range of other different identities in Britain today By interrogating myths and stereotypes and looking at themes of remembering and forgetting belonging and alienation location and dislocation Ruth Gilbert examines how these writers identify the particularity of their difference while acknowledging that this difference is neither fixed nor final but always open to re interpretation

Three-Way Street Jay Howard Geller, Leslie Morris, 2016-09-21 As German Jews emigrated in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries and as exiles from Nazi Germany they carried the traditions culture and particular prejudices of their home with them At the same time Germany and Berlin in particular attracted both secular and religious Jewish scholars from eastern Europe. They engaged in vital intellectual exchange with German Jewry although their cultural and religious practices differed greatly and they absorbed many cultural practices that they brought back to Warsaw or took with them to New York and Tel Aviv. After the Holocaust, German Jews and non-German Jews educated in Germany were forced to reevaluate their essential relationship with Germany and Germanness as well as their notions of Jewish life outside of Germany. Among the first volumes to focus on German Jewish transnationalism, this interdisciplinary collection spans the fields of history, literature, film, theater, architecture, philosophy, and theology as it examines the lives of significant emigrants. The individuals whose stories are reevaluated include German Jews Ernst Lubitsch, David Einhorn, and Gershom Scholem; the architect Fritz Nathan; and filmmaker Helmar Lerski; and eastern European Jews David Bergelson, Der Nister, Jacob Katz, Joseph Soloveitchik, and Abraham Joshua Heschel, figures not normally associated with Germany. Three Way Street addresses the gap in the scholarly literature as it opens up critical ways of approaching Jewish culture not only in Germany but also in other locations from the mid-nineteenth century to the present.

Zionism and the Roads Not Taken Noam Pianko, 2010-06-03 Today Zionism is understood as a national movement whose primary historical goal was the establishment of a Jewish state. However, Zionism's association with national sovereignty was not foreordained. Zionism and the Roads Not Taken uncovers the thought of three key interwar Jewish intellectuals who defined Zionism's central mission as challenging the model of a sovereign nation-state: historian Simon Rawidowicz, religious thinker Mordecai Kaplan, and political theorist Hans Kohn. Although their models differed, each of these three thinkers conceived of a more practical and ethical paradigm of national cohesion that was not tied to a sovereign state. Recovering these roads not taken helps us to reimagine Jewish identity and collectivity past, present, and future.

Framing Jewish Culture Simon J. Bronner, 2014-01-01 Modernity offers people choices about who they want to be and how they want to appear to others. The way in which Jews choose to frame their identity establishes the dynamic of their social relations with other Jews and non-Jews, a dynamic complicated by how non-Jews position the boundaries around what and who they define as Jewish. This book uncovers these processes historically as well as in contemporary behavior and finds explanations for the various manifestations in feeling and action of being Jewish. Boundaries and borders raise fundamental questions about the difference between Jews and non-Jews. At root, the question is how Jewish is understood in social situations where people recognize or construct boundaries between their own identity and those of others. The question is important because this is, by definition, the point at which the lines of demarcation between Jews and non-Jews and between different groupings of Jews are negotiated. Collectively, the contributors to the book expand our understanding of the social dynamics of framing Jewish identity. The book opens with an introduction that locates the issues raised by the contributors in terms of the scholarly traditions from which they have evolved. Part I presents four essays dealing with the construction and maintenance of boundaries: two by scholars showing how boundaries come to be etched on an ethnic landscape and two by activists who question and adjust distinctions among neighbors Part II focuses on expressive means of conveying identity and memory while in Part III the discussion turns to museum exhibitions and festive performances as locations for the negotiation of identity in the public sphere A lively discussion forum concludes the book with a consideration of the paradoxes of Jewish heritage revival in Poland and the perception of that revival by Jews and non Jews
