Electronic Databases and Publishing Albert Henderson, 2018-01-18 The true pioneers in electronic publishing put their bibliographic databases on tape and online in the 1960s Nearly all of them had long experience with compiling information for distribution in printed form and a strong market connection As a result of Soviet advances in science and space technology American government support for information science and academic libraries flowed freely for a little over a decade making possible tremendous advances in technology in retrieval techniques and in sophisticated coverage Advances in information technology and market conditions have encouraged many more participants to underwrite the development of databases that now extend into the arts social sciences business and popular interests These essays show how production statistics accompanied by statements of editorial coverage provide a fairly accurate reflection of output of many of the major disciplinary bibliographic databases The urgent priority of information resources in the 1960s has encouraged comprehensive servicing of the formal research literature as published in journals and monographs Authors have counted subject words languages origins types of publication and so on over several decades This volume also includes articles on some databases that are not strictly bibliographic such as the CMG database of college courses which illuminates some of the changes in college textbook publishing Information seekers will find the many tables of practical use as guidance to what and how much may be found within each database Analysts of publishing of science policy and of higher education will find information relevant to expenditures human resources and other indicators of education research and technology activity

Web Engineering David Lowe, Martin Gaedke, 2011-04-06 Over the last few years Web Engineering has begun to gain mainstream acceptance within the software engineering IT and related disciplines In particular both researchers and practitioners are increasingly recognizing the unique characteristics of Web systems and what these characteristics imply in terms of the approaches we take to Web systems development and deployment in practice A scan of the publications in related conference proceedings and journals highlights the diversity of the discipline areas which contribute to both the richness and the complexity of Web Engineering The 5th International Conference on Web Engineering ICWE2005 held in Sydney Australia extends the traditions established by the earlier conferences in the series ICWE2004 in Munich Germany ICWE2003 in Oviedo Spain ICWE2002 in Santa Fe Argentina and ICWE2001 in Cáceres Spain Not only have these conferences helped disseminate cutting edge research within the field of Web Engineering but they have also helped define and shape the discipline itself The program we have put together for ICWE2005 continues this evolution Indeed we can now begin to see the maturing of the field For possibly the first time there was very little debate within the Program Committee about which papers were in and out of scope and much more debate as to the each papers contributions to the field
