Questions of Tradition Mark Salber Phillips, Mark Phillips, Gordon J. Schochet, 2004-01-01 Tradition is a central concern for a wide range of academic disciplines interested in problems of transmitting culture across generations Yet the concept itself has received remarkably little analysis A substantial literature has grown up around the notion of invented tradition but no clear concept of tradition is to be found in these writings since the very notion of invented tradition presupposes a prior concept of tradition and is empty without one this debunking usage has done as much to obscure the idea as to clarify it In the absence of a shared concept the various disciplines have created their own vocabularies to address the subject Useful as they are these specialized vocabularies of which the best known include hybridity canonicity diaspora paradigm and contact zones separate the disciplines and therefore necessarily create only a collection of parochial and disjointed approaches Until now there has been no concerted attempt to put the various disciplines in conversation with one another around the problem of tradition Combining discussions of the idea of tradition by major scholars from a variety of disciplines with synoptic synthesizing essays Questions of Tradition will initiate a renewal of interest in this vital subject
