Answer Key

1776: American colonies won a declared independence from Great Britain. This was a significant event in the history of the United States, as it marked the beginning of the nation's journey towards self-governance.

1787: The Constitution of the United States was drafted. This document established the framework for the federal government and the rights of the states.

1791: The Bill of Rights was added to the Constitution. These ten amendments guaranteed certain rights to the people, such as freedom of speech and religion.

1800: The federal government moved from Philadelphia to Washington, D.C. This move was a significant step in the development of the nation's capital.

1850: The Compromise of 1850 was reached. This agreement helped to temporarily resolve the issue of slavery in the territories.

1861: The American Civil War began. This conflict was a pivotal moment in American history, as it led to the abolition of slavery.

1865: The Civil War ended with the Emancipation Proclamation. This declaration freed the slaves and changed the course of the war.

1870: The Reconstruction era began. This period was dedicated to rebuilding the South and integrating African Americans into society.

1877: The Reconstruction era ended. This marked the end of the federal government's efforts to enforce Reconstruction policies.

The White House is the official residence and workplace of the President of the United States. It is located in Washington, D.C., and is one of the most famous landmarks in the world.
