Nation as Network Victoria Bernal, 2014 How is the internet transforming the relationships between citizens and states What happens to politics when international migration is coupled with digital media making it easy for people to be politically active in a nation from outside its borders In Nation as Network Victoria Bernal creatively combines media studies ethnography and African studies to explore this new political paradigm through a striking analysis of how Eritreans in diaspora have used the internet to shape the course of Eritrean history Bernal argues that Benedict Anderson's famous concept of nations as imagined communities must now be rethought because diasporas and information technologies have transformed the ways nations are sustained and challenged She traces the development of Eritrean diaspora websites over two turbulent decades that saw the Eritrean state grow ever more tyrannical Through Eritreans own words in posts and debates she reveals how new subjectivities are formed and political action is galvanized online She suggests that infopolitics struggles over the management of information make politics in the 21st century distinct and she analyzes the innovative ways Eritreans deploy the internet to support and subvert state power Nation as Network is a unique and compelling work that advances our understanding of the political significance of digital media

Digital Research Methods and the Diaspora Dang Nguyen, 2023-11-29 The computational turn in the social sciences and humanities has generated much excitement about the potential to refresh our approaches to the study of the techno social From natively digital to digitised data researchers of digital diasporas increasingly find themselves working with a range of disparate digital objects These digital objects can include anything from hyperlink to timestamps from platform behavioural metrics such as react share or retweet to different media formats such as text image pre recorded or livestreamed videos Taking these disparate objects into account this book introduces digital methods as research strategies not only for dealing with the ephemeral and unstable nature of tracing the diaspora with digital data but also for reconceptualizing digital diasporas as assemblages and networks of more than human actors The book also introduces a range of theoretical perspectives and methodological techniques to studying digital diasporas as contingent and processual hybrid collectives of heterogeneous material cultural and practice based assemblages This book will be essential reading for students and scholars interested in the digital space and transnational communities

Networks of Knowledge Production in Sudan Sondra Hale, Gada Kadoda, 2016-09-14 This is the first book of its kind on Sudan and arguably one of the first in North Africa We are part of an emerging more cosmopolitan approach that calls for a reassessment of ideas about not only the concept of identities but also about migration and technology especially social media Our essayists engage in redefinitions the broadening of our key variables the linking and intersecting of concepts and the investigations of methods and ethics and opt for an approach that is at once culturally specific to Sudan one of the most fluid social landscapes in the world and transnational Our essays address the narrowness of studies of migration and note the almost total neglect in the broader Sudan literature of the rise of technology mobile telephony and social media in particular Furthermore our essayists address the near neglect in the Sudan literature of certain categories of people such as youth or certain diverse spaces such as neighborhoods or gold mines We have also been attempting to move away from the nearly stereotypic descriptions of Sudan to deal with topics that align Sudan with transnational issues and themes knowledge production among them This multidisciplinary collection of essays is the first comprehensive work to grapple explicitly with the question of knowledge production in such a diverse social landscape We discuss the impact of current trends in information technology and contemporary forms of identity and mobility on knowledge production These issues are pertinent for different sectors such as academia government or business and as we demonstrate reveal a myriad of possibilities for studying diverse population groups like youth women diaspora or specific political contexts such as conflict or oppression

Bottleneck Caroline Melly, 2017-10-17 In Bottleneck anthropologist Caroline Melly uses the problem of traffic bottlenecks to launch a wide ranging study of mobility in contemporary urban Senegal a concept that she argues is central to both citizens and the state s visions of a successful future Melly opens with an account of the generation of urban men who came of age on the heels of the era of structural adjustment a diverse cohort with great dreams of building moving and belonging but frustratingly few opportunities to do so From there she moves to a close study of taxi drivers and state workers and shows how bottlenecks physical and institutional affect both The third section of the book covers a seemingly stalled state effort to solve housing problems by building large numbers of concrete houses while the fourth takes up the thousands of migrants who attempt sometimes with tragic results to cross the Mediterranean on rickety boats in search of new opportunities The resulting book offers a remarkable portrait of contemporary Senegal and a means of theorizing mobility and its impossibilities far beyond the African continent

Invisible Borders in a Bordered World Alexander C. Diener, Joshua Hagen, 2022-09-02 This book critically challenges the usual territorial understanding of borders by examining the often messy internal transborder ambiguous and in between spaces that co exist with traditional borders By considering those less visible aspects of borders the book develops an inclusive understanding of how contemporary borders are structured and how they influence human identity mobility and belonging The introduction and conclusion provide theoretical and contextual framing while chapters explore topics of global labor and refugees unrecognized states ethnic networks cyberspace transboundary resource conflicts and indigenous and religious spaces that rarely register on conventional maps or commonplace understandings of territory In the end the volume demonstrates that despite being invisible on most maps these borders have a very real material and tangible presence and consequences for those people who live within alongside and across them
