Deterritorialized Youth Dawn Chatty, 2010-04-01 The Sahrawi and Afghan refugee youth in the Middle East have been stereotyped regionally and internationally some have been objectified as passive victims others have become the beneficiaries of numerous humanitarian aid packages which presume the primacy of the Western model of child development This book compares and contrasts both the stereotypes and Western based models of humanitarian assistance among Sahrawi youth with the lack of programming and near total self sufficiency of Afghan refugee youth in Iran Both extremes offer an important opportunity to further explore the impact which forced migration and prolonged conflict have had and continue to have on the lives of these refugee youth and their families This study examines refugee communities closely linked with the United Nations High Commission for Refugees UNHCR and a host of other UN agencies in the case of the Sahrawi and near total lack of humanitarian aid in the case of Afghan refugees in Iran Iron in the Soul Peter Loizos, 2008 In his vivid lively account of how Greek Cypriot villagers coped with a thirty year displacement Peter Lo zos follows a group of people whom he encountered as prosperous farmers in 1968 yet found as disoriented refugees when revisiting in 1975 By providing a forty year in depth perspective unusual in the social sciences this study yields unconventional insights into the deeper meanings of displacement It focuses on reconstruction of livelihoods conservation of family community social capital health both physical and mental religious and political perceptions The author argues for a closer collaboration between anthropology and the life sciences particularly medicine and social epidemiology but suggests that qualitative life history data have an important role to play in the understanding of how people cope with collective stress Materialising Exile Sandra H. Dudley, 2010 Focusing on the highly diverse Karen refugee population living in camps on the Thai Burma border this innovative book explores materiality embodiment memory imagination and identity among refugees providing new and important ways of understanding how refugees make sense of experience self and other It examines how and to what ends refugees perceive represent manipulate use as metaphor and otherwise engage with material objects and spaces and includes a focus on the real and metaphorical journeys that bring about and perpetuate exile The combined emphasis on both displacement and materiality and the analysis of the cultural construction and intersections of exilic objects spaces and bodies are unique in the study of both refugees and material culture Drawing theoretical influences from phenomenology aesthetics and beyond as well as from refugee studies and anthropology the author addresses the current lack of theoretical analysis of the material visual spatial and embodied aspects of forced migration providing a fundamentally interlinked analysis of enforced exile and materiality Trafficking and Human Rights Leslie Holmes, 2010-01-01 Human trafficking is widely considered to be the fastest growing branch of trafficking As this important book reveals it has moved rapidly up the agenda of states and international organisations since the early 1990s not only because of this growth but also as its implications for security and human rights have become clearer This fascinating study by international experts provides original research findings on human trafficking with particular reference to Europe South East Asia and Australia A major focus is on why and how many states and organisations act in ways that undermine trafficked victims rights as part of quadruple victimisation It compares and contrasts policies and suggests which seem to work best and why The contributors also advocate radical new approaches that most states and other formal organisations appear loath to introduce for reasons that are explored in this unique book Years of Conflict Jason Hart, 2008-09-01 Recent years have witnessed a significant growth of interest in the consequences of political violence and displacement for the young However when speaking of children commentators have often taken the situation of those in early and middle childhood as representative of all young people under eighteen years of age As a consequence the specific situation of adolescents negotiating the processes of transition towards social adulthood amidst conditions of violence and displacement is commonly overlooked Years of Conflict provides a much needed corrective Drawing upon perspectives from anthropology psychology and media studies as well as the insights of those involved in programmatic interventions it describes and analyses the experiences of older children facing the challenges of daily life in settings of conflict post conflict and refuge Several authors also reflect upon methodological issues in pursuing research with young people in such settings The accounts span the globe taking in Liberia Afghanistan South Africa Peru Jordan UK Western Europe Eastern Africa Iran USA and Colombia This book will be invaluable to those seeking a fuller understanding of conflict and displacement and its effects upon adolescents It will also be welcomed by practitioners concerned to develop more effective ways of providing support to this group Remaking Home Maja Korac,2009-10-01 Rather than emphasising boundaries and territories by examining the integration and acculturation of the immigrant or the refugee this book offers insights into the ideas and practices of individuals settling into new societies and cultures It analyses their ideas of connecting and belonging their accounts of the past the present and the future the interaction and networks of relations practical strategies and the different meanings of home and belonging that are constructed in new sociocultural settings The author uses empirical research to explore the experiences of refugees from the successor states of Yugoslavia who are struggling to make a home for themselves in Amsterdam and Rome By explaining how real people navigate through the difficulties of their displacement as well as the numerous scenarios and barriers to their emplacement the author sheds new light on our understanding of what it is like to be a refugee 'Brothers' Or Others?

Anita H. Fábos,2008 Muslim Arab Sudanese in Cairo have played a fundamental role in Egyptian history and society during many centuries of close relations between Egypt and Sudan Although the government and official press describes them as brothers in a united Nile Valley recent political developments in Egypt have underscored the precarious legal status of Sudanese in Cairo Neither citizens nor foreigners they are in an uncertain position created in part through an unusual ethnic discourse which does not draw principally on obvious characteristics of difference This rich ethnographic study shows instead that Sudanese ethnic identity is created from deeply held social values especially those concerning gender and propriety shared by Sudanese and Egyptian communities The resulting ethnic identity is ambiguous and flexible allowing Sudanese to voice their frustrations and make claims for their own uniqueness while acknowledging the identity that they share with the dominant Egyptian community The Oxford Handbook of International Refugee Law Cathryn

Costello,Michelle Foster,Jane McAdam,2021-06-02 The Oxford Handbook of International Refugee Law is a comprehensive critical work which analyses the state of research across the refugee law regime as a whole Drawing together leading and emerging scholars the Handbook provides both doctrinal and theoretical analyses of international refugee law and practice It critiques existing law from a variety of normative positions with several chapters identifying foundational flaws that open up space for radical rethinking Many authors work directly in the field and their contributions demonstrate how scholarship and practice can mutually inform each other Contributions assess a wide range of international legal instruments relevant to refugee protection including from international human rights law international humanitarian law international migration law the law of the sea and international and transnational criminal law Geographically contributors examine regional and domestic laws and practices from around the world with 10 chapters focused on specific regions This Handbook provides an account as well as a critique of the status quo and in so doing it sets the agenda for future academic research in international refugee law Asylum as Reparation James Souter,2021-12-10 This book argues that states have a special obligation to offer asylum as a form of reparation to refugees for whose flight they are responsible. It shows the great relevance of reparative justice and the importance of the causes of contemporary forced migration for our understanding of states' responsibilities to refugees. Part I explains how this view presents an alternative to the dominant humanitarian approach to asylum in political theory and some practice. Part II outlines the conditions under which asylum should act as a form of reparation, arguing that a state owes this form of asylum to refugees where it bears responsibility for the unjustified harms that they experience and where asylum is the most fitting form of reparation available. Part III explores some of the ethical implications of this reparative approach to asylum for the workings of states' asylum systems and the international politics of refugee protection.

The Oxford Handbook of Refugee and Forced Migration Studies Elena Fiddian-Qasmiyeh, Gil Loescher, Katy Long, Nando Sigona, 2014-06-12

Refugee and Forced Migration Studies has grown from being a concern of a relatively small number of scholars and policy researchers in the 1980s to a global field of interest with thousands of students worldwide studying displacement either from traditional disciplinary perspectives or as a core component of newer programmes across the Humanities and Social and Political Sciences. Today the field encompasses both rigorous academic research which may or may not ultimately inform policy and practice as well as action research focused on advocating in favour of refugees' needs and rights. This authoritative Handbook critically evaluates the birth and development of Refugee and Forced Migration Studies and analyses the key contemporary and future challenges faced by academics and practitioners working with and for forcibly displaced populations around the world. The 52 state-of-the-art chapters written by leading academics, practitioners and policymakers working in universities, research centres, think tanks, NGOs and international organizations provide a comprehensive and cutting-edge overview of the key intellectual, political, social and institutional challenges arising from mass displacement in the world today. The chapters vividly illustrate the vibrant and engaging debates that characterize this rapidly expanding field of research and practice.

Asylum-Seeking, Migration and Church Susanna Snyder, 2016-04-15

Asylum Seeking, Migration and Church addresses one of the most pressing issues confronting contemporary society: How are we to engage with migrants? Drawing on studies of church engagement with asylum seekers in the UK and critical immigration and refugee issues in North America, Snyder presents an extended theological reflection on both the issue of asylum seeking and the fears of established populations surrounding immigration. This book outlines ways in which churches are currently supporting asylum seekers, encouraging closer engagement with people seen as 'other' and more thoughtful responses to newcomers. Creatively exploring biblical and theological traditions surrounding the stranger, Snyder argues that as well as practising a vision of inclusive community, churches would do well to engage with established population fears. Trends in global migration and the dynamics of fear and hostility surrounding immigration are critically and creatively explored throughout the book. Inviting more complex, nuanced responses to asylum seekers and immigrants, this book offers invaluable insights to those interested in Christian ethics, practical theology, social work mission and faith and social action as well as those working in the field of migration
