

Question: I've been asked to give a presentation on the importance of the Internet in the workplace. I'm not a computer expert, but I do know a little about it. Can you help me?

Answer: Sure. The Internet is a great tool for the workplace. It can be used to communicate, collaborate, and share information. Here are some tips for giving a presentation on the Internet in the workplace:

- 1. Start with a story. Share a personal experience or a story from a colleague that illustrates the power of the Internet in the workplace.
- 2. Explain the basics. Give a brief overview of the Internet, including what it is, how it works, and the different types of Internet services.
- 3. Focus on the workplace. Discuss the different ways the Internet is used in the workplace, such as email, instant messaging, and web browsing.
- 4. Share examples. Give examples of how the Internet has been used successfully in the workplace.
- 5. End with a call to action. Encourage your audience to explore the Internet and see how it can be used to improve their work.

Good luck with your presentation!

Handcrafted Hope

by Sherry

Kwame Adams and Katrina Adams are educators in Ghana, West Africa. Kwame and Katrina wanted to help the West African women provide better lives for themselves and for their children. In 1988, Adams and Katrina formed an organization called Global Mission. The purpose of Global Mission is to help the women of Ghana and export handcrafted products to other women. Global Mission helps women open businesses which produce items such as beads, baskets, and soap. The Ghana women are then given assistance in selling their goods to people and places around the world. (Kwame and Katrina are not part of the Global Mission organization, they are producers that the women of Ghana work for.)

All of the products made and sold by the Ghana women are produced into baskets, beaded necklaces, and beaded jewelry. The products are sold to tourists, and to the women of Ghana. Although the products are sold to tourists and to the women of Ghana, the products are also sold to the women of Ghana.

Ghana has a long history of weaving and is known for its beaded and woven goods. The beaded and woven goods are made by the women of Ghana. The beaded and woven goods are made by the women of Ghana. The beaded and woven goods are made by the women of Ghana.
