Captive City Jennie Lightweis-Goff,2024-12-10 Explores the legacies of slavery in Southern cities along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts Cities are fraught sites in the national imagination turned into identity markers when urban and rural indicate tastes rather than places Cities bring chaos draining the lifeblood of the nation like a tick draws blood from its host to paraphrase Thomas Jefferson s anti urban polemics which might have been written during any election year centuries or months ago Racism and anti urbanism were born conjoined during the Revolution Like their Atlantic coastal counterparts in the US North Southern cities similarly polyglot and cosmopolitan resist the dominant mutually inclusive prejudices of the nation that fails to contain them on its eroding flooding coasts Captive City explores the paths of slavery in coastal cities arguing that captivity haunts the hospitality cultures of Charleston New Orleans Savannah and Baltimore It is not a history of urban slavery but a literary reflection that argues for coastal cities as a distinct region that scrambles time resisting the post in postindustrial and the neo in neoliberalism Jennie Lightweis Goff offers a cultural exploration bound by American literature especially life writing by the enslaved as well as compelling reassessments of works by canonical writers such as Frederick Douglass Harriet Jacobs and Hector St John de Crevecoeur Lightweis Goff reveals how the preserved yet fragile landscapes of these cities are haunted not simply by the ghost tours that are signature stops for travelers in their historic districts but by the echoes of slavery in their economies and built environments

Markets of Sorrow, Labors of Faith Vincanne Adams,2013-03-04 Markets of Sorrow Labors of Faith is an ethnographic account of long term recovery in post Katrina New Orleans It is also a sobering exploration of the privatization of vital social services under market driven governance In the wake of Hurricane Katrina public agencies subcontracted disaster relief to private companies that turned the humanitarian work of recovery into lucrative business These enterprises profited from the very suffering that they failed to ameliorate producing a second order disaster that exacerbated inequalities based on race and class and leaving residents to rebuild almost entirely on their own Filled with the often desperate voices of residents who returned to New Orleans Markets of Sorrow Labors of Faith describes the human toll of disaster capitalism and the affect economy it has produced While for profit companies delayed delivery of federal resources to returning residents faith based and nonprofit groups stepped in to rebuild compelled by the moral pull of charity and the emotional rewards of volunteer labor Adams traces the success of charity efforts even while noting an irony of neoliberalism which encourages the very same for profit companies to exploit these charities as another market opportunity In so doing the companies profit not once but twice on disaster

Small-Screen Souths Lisa Hinrichsen, Gina Caison, Stephanie Rountree, 2017-11-16 As the first collection dedicated to the relationship between television and the U S South Small Screen Souths addresses the growing interest in how mass culture represents the region and influences popular perceptions of it In sixteen essays divided into three thematic sections scholars of southern culture analyze representations of the South in a variety of television shows spanning the history of the medium from classic network programs such as The Andy Griffith Show and Designing Women to some of today's popular franchises like Duck Dynasty and The Walking Dead. The first section Politics and Identity in the Televisual South focuses on how television constructs understandings of race, gender, sexuality, and class, often adapting to changing configurations of community and identity. The next section Caricatures, Commodities, and Catharsis in the Rural South examines the tension between depictions of southern rural communities and assumptions about abject whiteness, particularly conceptions of poverty and profitized culture. The concluding section Dis Locating the South considers the influence of postcolonialism, globalization, and cosmopolitanism in understanding television featuring the region. Throughout the essays, investigate the profuse, often contradictory ways that the U.S. South has been represented on television, seeking to expand and pluralize myopic perspectives of the region. By analyzing depictions of the South from the classical network era to the contemporary post-broadcast age, Small Screen Souths offers a broad historical scope and a multiplicity of theoretical and interdisciplinary perspectives on what it means to see the South from the television screen.

Relationships/Beziehungsgeschichten. Austria and the United States in the Twentieth Century Günter Bischof, 2014-04-28

After the breakup of the Habsburg Monarchy, the Austrian-American relationship was characterized by a dwarf confronting a giant. America continued to be a heaven for a better life for many Austrian emigrants. For the growing American preponderant position in the world after World War I, the small Austrian Republic was insignificant. And yet there were times when Austria mattered geopolitically. During the post-World War II occupation of Austria, the U.S. helped reconstruct Austria economically and was the biggest champion of its independence. During the Cold War, the U.S. frequently used Austria as a mediator site of summit meetings. American mass production models, consumerism, and popular culture were adopted by Austrian youth. Americanization and American preponderance also produced anti-Americanism. With the end of the Cold War and Austria's accession to the European Union, it once again lost significance for Washington's geopolitics.
